General Strike By AFL Seamen Threatens; Men Return to Ships

Union Officials Say Walkout Seems Certain, Perhaps "Right Away"

MEETINGS ARE HELD IN MAJOR SEAPORTS

Strike Vote Is Authorized at New York "Stop-Work" Session

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—AFL seamen stalked from ships by the thousands today and threatened to beat CIO maritime unions to the punch on a general shipping strike.

Two officials of AFL sailors unions said in New York a full-scale strike of 62,000 members seemed certain, perhaps "right away," perhaps within a week.

Just how that might be accomplished under the Smith-Connally Labor act and its requirement for a thirty-day notice of a strike was not clear. In the meantime, the AFL seamen straggled back up the gangplanks after holding meetings in the major salt water ports.

Strike Vote Is Favored

The government already is struggling, in negotiations with union officials and ship operators, to head off a nationwide CIO maritime strike set for June 15. Some labor experts said privately that the AFL now seems bent on seizing some of the attention the CIO strike threat has commanded.

Members of the AFL Seafarers International Union and its affiliated Sailors Union of the Pacific quit work simultaneously today in thirty-odd of the nation's chief maritime cities.

In New York, 5,000 of them met for three hours and unanimously authorized a strike vote. At a subsequent news conference a declaration that a strike of 62,000 members appeared certain came from John Hawk, international vice president of the seafarers' union and Jack Dwyer, Port agent of the Sailors Union of the Pacific.

Dwyer said ship operators, dealing with seven CIO unions in Washington, had been "too damned busy" to meet with representatives of AFL seamen.

Men Are Ordered Back to Work

The union chiefs said the meeting voted to treat navy or coast guard personnel as strike breakers if they try to run union ships in case of a strike—as promised by President Truman.

Later, the 5,000 who attended the caucus were ordered back to work.

In San Francisco, union leaders said AFL sailors were "hot for a strike." Harry Lundeberg, head of both the seafarers and SUP, said 2,000 to 2,500 seamen voted that they would not be bound by any decision made by "the three-ring

Commission To Consider Demands for Special Legislature Session

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 6 (AP)—Veterans' demands for a special legislative session to deal with their requests will be considered by a special non-partisan commission to be appointed soon, Gov. O'Conor disclosed today.

He observed that in order to avert any political implications there could be no consideration of a special session before the June 24 primary.

But he pointed out that if there was no extraordinary meeting of the state Legislature before the November election, the question of a a veterans' bonus—which would require a referendum on a constitutional amendment—would have to be delayed until 1949.

The chief executive said that the new commission would arrange to confer with veterans' representatives on the demands.

Senate Debates Bill To Overhaul Lawmaking Setup

Pride, Patronage and Politics Jeopardize Passage of Measure

By ALEX SINGLETON

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—A triple threat—pride, patronage and politics—jeopardized today Senate passage of a bulky bill to overhaul the nation's lawmaking machinery.

The question of pride centered upon proposed reduction of Senate committees and consequent elimination of a number of highly-prized chairmanships.

That of patronage was raised over the provision that a personnel director — rather than committee chairmen — would control appointments to well-paying jobs as legislative experts.

And in this election year, the political angle stemmed from the fear that proposed increased benefits for congressmen would be used as campaign ammunition by their opponents.

The measure's supporters privately counted these factors as the chief obstacles in the way of their plan to streamline congressional machinery.

Despite this, however, the plan attracted bi-partisan support in the first full day's debate after Sen. LaFollette (Prog-Wis) outlined it and termed it necessary to avoid a "constitutional crisis."

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) and Sen. Wagner (D-NY) both announced their support of the plan, although both said there were some details they would like to see changed. Taft termed the bill "an important step forward."

Product of a year-long study by a joint congressional committee, the measure would:

1. Limit the number of Senate committees to sixteen. There are now thirty-three standing and ten special committees, an average of six seats for each member.

2. Provide the committees with a staff of four experts each.

3. Give each member an administrative assistant to handle constituents' requests.

4. Tighten fiscal control by providing for adoption of annual federal budget controls by joint action of the Revenue and Appropriating committees of both houses.

5. Eliminate some of Congress's routine chores such as acting on each separate bill to build a bridge or pay a damage claim against the government.

6. Boost the pay of members of Congress from $10,000 to $15,000 a year.

7. Permit pensions for members of Congress by authorizing them to contribute to the federal retirement system and to share in its benefits.

Truman Says He's Still Analyzing Case Labor Bill

President Declares He Still Favors His Own Emergency Measure

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—President Truman withheld decision today on the Case union control bill and put in another plug for his own emergency strike measure.

The president told his news conference that reports he has decided to veto the Case bill are not true—that he is still analyzing it.

He said further that he still favors his own emergency measure. Responding to a question, he said he favors it in the form in which the House passed it two hours after he proposed it to the joint session of Congress. In that version the bill includes a provision, knocked out in the Senate, for drafting workers who strike against government-seized industries.

Shortly after Mr. Truman had restated his position, House leaders said they had decided to postpone, probably until next week, further action on the president's plan. They had proposed earlier to pass to the Rules committee the task of figuring out a procedure for dealing with varying Senate and House versions.

When it does come up a motion will be made to send the measure to a Senate-House conference to work out an agreement. One objection to that procedure would automatically refer the issue to the rules group, and such an objection is fully expected.

Meanwhile Rep. Case (R-SD), author of the labor bill already waiting for the president's decision, got into the veto argument with a declaration that Mr. Truman could cope with the maritime strike by signing it immediately.

He told reporters that sections of the bill setting up a federal mediation board and fact-finding boards would provide a delay of at least sixty days in the shipping strike merely by government intervention.

Mr. Truman has until midnight June 12 to sign or veto the bill.

House supporters of the Case legislation announced 135 signatures to a petition calling on the president to sign it.

Opponents reported "more than 100" signers to their petition requesting a veto.

Leaders of both sides declared they are circulating the petitions because of reports that Mr. Truman still is undecided. They hope to influence his decision by showing him what the breakdown would be on a vote if he vetoes the bill.

Umberto Is Expected To Urge Italian Unity In Farewell Message

ROME, June 6 (AP)—King Umberto II tonight was drafting a farewell message expected to urge unity for the new Italian republic, already confronted with muttering of secession in the South, before joining his queen en route to exile in Portugal.

The royal household announced officially that Queen Marie Jose and her four children were on their way to Portugal aboard the Italian cruiser Duca Degli Abruzzi, and Umberto was expected to follow after giving a final message to the nation. His family ruled Italy for seventy-five years and his reign lasted just under a month.

Talk of secession came from the south of Italy, which saw its overwhelming monarchial vote in the plebiscite go for naught in the face of the North's heavy vote for the republic. There was open discussion in Naples, royalist stronghold, about breaking with the North.

Gravediggers Strike

FAIRVIEW, N. J., June 6. (AP)—Twenty-one gravediggers at the Fairview cemetery struck today for a twelve and a half cents hourly increase, and four bodies scheduled for burial were placed in a mausoleum pending settlement of the dispute.

Porter Attacks Senate Banking Group's OPA Bill

Statement Underscores Taft's Comment That Senate Battle Looms

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—Price Administrator Paul Porter asserted tonight that "effective price and control will end" if the Senate Banking committee's OPA extension bill becomes law.

His statement attacking the measure served to underscore the comment of Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) that a major battle may be expected when the Senate takes it up next week, especially over a provision lifting meat and dairy price controls at the end of this month.

Though they are on opposite sides of the issue, Porter in his formal statement and Taft in talking to reporters laid their emphasis on the same points—the meat and dairy price ceilings questions and the regulations on profit margin allowances.

Taft Expects Quarrel

Taft, who supported in committee the lifting of the meat and dairy ceilings, said he expected the big quarrel over that point. He added that sharp debate is likely on a committee-approved rule forbidding OPA to force cost absorption upon dealers in "conversion" items such as automobiles, refrigerators, and radios.

He said also that he will try to write in on the floor his own amendment to require that manufacturers be allowed their 1941 prices plus the industry's average unit increase in costs since then.

Porter, in his statement, asserted his belief that if the measure passes as it now stands, meat will rise forty to fifty per cent in price and the cost of butter, milk, cream and cheese will soar.

He said further that the effects would spread from that point to other items of the national economy.

He added that rent controls "could not long remain with other prices uncontrolled."

Bill Is Sent to Senate

He added: "The net result of these amendements would be that the city worker and everybody else pays more for his food. The farmer and everybody else pays more for his clothing, tools and the electrical equipment he's been saving his money for. We couldn't meet our commitments to feed famine-stricken allies."

Eisenhower Asks Draft Extension

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—With the final form of the draft extension highly uncertain, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said tonight that "the pool of potential volunteers is drying up" and "Selective Service must supplement enlistments."

"For this purpose eighteen months of service is a fair contribution to ask of any young man," the chief of staff declared. "The security of our own country and the continuing peace of our world are worth it. It is far less than we asked of the soldiers who fought to make possible a peaceful world."

Eisenhower prepared his remarks for an NBC broadcast commemorating the second anniversary of the landings in Normandy which he commanded as supreme Allied commander.

Meanwhile a final congressional decision on the future of the draft awaited conferences between the Senate and House to adjust their differences over the length and terms of the extension.

One of the chief issues is whether teen-ageers should be drafted again after the present stopgap extension expires July 1. The measure passed by the Senate yesterday would permit 18 and 19 year-olds to be called, but the House previously had disapproved.

Moslem Council Accepts British Free-India Plan

Establishment of Separate State Remains League's Objective

NEW DELHI, June 6 (AP)—The Moslem League's council accepted tonight the British cabinet mission's plan for an independent federated union of India, but reiterated that establishment of a separate Moslem state (Pakistan) remained the Moslems' "unalterable objective."

The council for the league, which claims to be the spokesman for 90,000,000 Moslems in India, said its action was "prompted by its earnest desire for a peaceful solution, if possible, of the Indian problem."

In a resolution, the council declared that "the basis and foundation of Pakistan are inherent" in the British plan, by virtue of the plan's reference to "compulsory regrouping" of six provinces in which the Moslems claim they are the dominant majority.

The league retains the right, the council asserted, to advise secession of Moslem groups from any federation of India resulting from the British plan. For achievement of Pakistan the Moslems will, "if necessary, employ every means in their power and consider no sacrifice or suffering too great," the council added.

The resolution, passed by virtually unanimous vote of the council, instructed its president, Mahomed Ali Jinnah, to negotiate with Viceroy Lord Wavell on participation in an interim central government.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, a leader of the other major Indian political party, the All-India Congress party, has already spoken in favor of following the British proposals.

U. N. Council Delays Debate On Proposed Spanish Break

New Drug Offers Hope To Hay Fever Sufferers

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—Dr. Alexander D. Ghiselin, Jr., of Presbyterian hospital, reports that a new drug—anthallan—"when used in doses of three to twelve capsules daily" over a period of one to five weeks offers hope to millions of American hay fever sufferers.

Writing in the June issue of the Bulletin of the New York Academy of Medicine, Dr. Ghiselin says tests and clinical studies conducted in forty-two cases at the Columbia University Presbyterian hospital medical center indicated anthallan was "a useful drug for obtaining relief in a high percentage of cases of seasonal and non-seasonal rhinitis."

And, adds the doctor, "anthallan can be used with complete safety."

U. S. and Britain Request More Time To Decide Their Position

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP) — The United Nations Security Council yielded to a request by the United States and Great Britain today for postponement of full-dress debate on a proposal for a complete United Nations diplomatic break with Generalissimo Franco's Spain by next September.

Both Herschel V. Johnson, sitting for the first time as the United States delegate, and Sir Alexander Cadogan, of Great Britain, said their governments had not had time to decide their position on the Spanish issue. They requested that the discussion be put off.

When it became apparent that no one wanted to start the long-expected debate, Council President Alexandre Parodi, of France, announced adjournment until next Tuesday.

The question before the council was a formal proposal by Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian delegate and chairman of the council subcommittee which investigated Spain, to approve the recommendations his group had reached after a month-long study.

The subcommittee decided that the Franco regime is a "potential threat to world peace and should be isolated unless Franco is ousted by September.

The group suggested that the Security council convey to the General Assembly, which meets here in September, a recommendation that every member of the United Nations break off relations with Franco if he still is in power by that time.

Dr. Evatt, also sitting for the first time in the council, told his fellow delegates and a crowded council chamber that as long as "Franco remains in power there is likely to be a situation of international concern."

Johnson immediately requested the discussion be put off. Sir Alexander supported Johnson.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Russian delegate, did not say a word during the session.

Prior to submission of the subcommittee report, Parodi expressed the council's regret at the resignation Monday of Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., as the United States delegate. Parodi at that time welcomed Johnson, who will serve as acting delegate until Sen. Warren R. Austin (R-Vt) takes the delegate's post next January 3.

Hotel Fire Death Toll Reaches 59

CHICAGO, June 6 (AP)—Investigators seeking to establish the source of a flash fire which killed fifty-nine persons in the LaSalle hotel early yesterday were told today the flames raced through the lobby like a "streak of lightning" preventing employes from fighting the blaze with fire extinguishers.

The informal testimony was given by Emil Landsnes, a freight elevator operator, as the grim job of identifying the dead neared completion. Only two bodies remained unidentified—a woman and another victim of undetermined sex.

The death toll rose to fifty-nine today when Miss Opal Sweat, 19, Tampa, Fla., died at Passavant hospital.

Another elevator operator, Eddie Kowalske, testified he first discovered the fire at 2:14 a. m. The fire department reported the day of the fire that it received the first call from the hotel at 12:35 a. m.

The inquiry of hotel employes and patrons was conducted by Harry Eckhardt, assistant corporation counsel acting as fire attorney.

Landsnes said he had been sent to the basement to obtain fire extinguishers when the first alarm was spread, but that the lobby was almost enveloped in flame when he returned a short while later.

"The flame spread like a streak of lightning," he said. "The wood didn't seem to be burning; just the varnish on top."

House Passes Rivers, Harbors Bill, 208 to 68

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP) — The House passed by a standing vote of 208 to 68 today the first big rivers and harbors bill since before the war.

The bill proposes an expenditure of more than $900,000,000 for navigation, flood control, hydro-electric power and related works throughout the country.

An economy move eliminated the $83,000,000 Big Sandy canalization plan in West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia.

While the bill makes no appropriation, the fifty approved projects become eligible for construction if and when Congress later votes the money. The measure goes next to the Senate.

Chief Executive Chooses Snyder To Be Secretary Of the Treasury

John L. Sullivan Is Nominated To Be Undersecretary of Navy

SUDDEN DISCLOSURE STARTLES CAPITAL

Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion Will Come to End

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—Fred M. Vinson, of Kentucky, former congressman, judge and reconversion director and now secretary of the treasury, was nominated by President Truman today to be chief justice of the United States.

In an action-packed news conference, Mr. Truman also announced two other nominations to high posts:

1. To be secretary of the treasury, John W. Snyder, now director of war mobilization and reconversion;

2. To be undersecretary of the navy, John L. Sullivan, now assistant secretary of the navy.

Mr. Truman made his decision on Vinson only an hour and half before his news conference, he said, and his sudden disclosure of all three nominations at once startled the capital.

OWMR Will Expire

The Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion, which Snyder now heads, will come to an end, the president said, indicating that no successor will be named. In reply to a question, Mr. Truman added that most of the reconversion problems it was set up to handle are over.

Mindful of reported conflicting views in the past between Snyder and Chester Bowles, former price administrator and now stabilization director, reporters also asked whether Bowles now becomes the top man in the stabilization setup. Mr. Truman replied that Bowles will continue in his present job as it is now functioning.

Snyder, a former St. Louis banker, has been one of the president's closest advisers on economic, labor and other matters.

Vinson, known as "Judge" to his intimates, was named secretary of the treasury by Mr. Truman last July to succeed Henry Morgenthau, Jr., now an open critic of the chief executive. Vinson served fourteen years in the House until President Roosevelt appointed him to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia in 1938. Subsequently he was reconversion director.

Undecided on Case Bill

Maryland Will Have Surplus of $7,704,000 On June 30, Tawes Says

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 6 (AP)—Greatly increased revenues, and savings in appropriations will leave the State of Maryland with a surplus of approximately $7,704,000 on June 30, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes disclosed today.

Tawes said the state had realized funds substantially larger than estimated, in racing, public utility gross taxes, and taxes on motor vehicle titling, alcoholic beverages, inheritance and recordation of deeds and mortgages.

"In the aggregate," the comptroller reported, "it is expected that in total the revenues will exceed the estimates by $6,945,000.

Reversions of appropriations, he added, would exceed the estimate by $800,000, and the net surplus would approximate $7,704,000.

Man Who Delivers Mail for Circus Finds Job Tough but Interesting

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—It's a very tough but interesting life, this delivering the mail for a circus.

Each day 2,000 letters and parcels arrive for the 1,400 people scampering around the Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey lot.

And Alex Neuburger, one-time acrobat, part-time clown and bustling letter-carrier, not only has to make two deliveries a day. He also must decide who should get such letter as the one addressed to:

"The girl working that trapeze in front of Section C and later paraded with a poodle."

This was a hard cookie to figure out, Neuburger explained to a reporter today as he hustled from one tent to another. No one seemed to know exactly who filled the description.

But once he hit on the solution, the answer was pretty simple. He went down to section C, sat through the acts, and looked for himself.

What makes Neuburger's job particularly rugged is that he has to be a walking post office. He lugs the mail, sure. But he also totes along money order blanks, scales, postage stamps, post cards and envelopes.

Then, too, there's the brief appearance he must make in the show. You know the act in which a standard coupe is driven in, and out pile twenty midgets and one giant? Well, Alec is the standard size guy who drives the coupe.

Brought up by his parents to be a bookkeeper in Germany, Alec decided being an acrobat was more fun. He's been in this country since

Sen. Taft Says Bowles "Slandered" Congress for Price Control Stand

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP) — Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) declared tonight that Stabilization Director Chester Bowles had "slandered" Congress for its stand on price control.

Taft replied in a broadcast prepared for the CBS network to Bowles's Tuesday night speech in which the administration official referred to the curtailed and amended version of the price control extension bill as "a monstrous thing."

"Mr. Bowles is an advertising man and is not concerned with facts," Taft declared.

"Congress listened for weeks to testimony regarding the facts. No one could have listened to that testimony without being convinced that in many cases OPA is unjust, unrealistic and illogical."

Taft said all that Congress proposes to do in the pending extension legislation is "to force the gradual decontrol of prices and impose some legislative restrictions on Mr. Bowles's arbitrary powers."

"Mr. Bowles slanders Congress by representing it as a group of weaklings, yielding to every cry for more profits," Taft said. "The truth is that if they were that kind of weaklings, Mr. Bowles's pressure groups are three times as strong as any group of business organizations."

The senator declared OPA has admitted spending $2,500,000 a year for publicity, and declared it has "repeatedly violated the law against spending government money to pressure Congress."

Taft asserted that Bowles made six specific misstatements in his Tuesday broadcast: By declaring that production since V-J day has risen to record peacetime levels; by saying that people have prospered because of price controls; by asserting that OPA recently increased dairy prices because Congress intended to reduce subsidies; by exaggerating the effects of removing subsidies; by blaming the lack of meat on Congress, and by claiming that Taft advocated raising the price level by fifteen per cent.

Kent R. Mullikin, Announcing His Support of Lane, Assails Tawes

BALTIMORE, June 6 (AP)—Kent R. Mullikin, former Democratic floor leader in the Maryland House of Delegates, announced tonight his support of William Preston Lane, Jr., for the party's gubernatorial nomination.

He said in a formal statement that "it is shocking to me that anyone, except William Curran and the members of his political machine, could seriously consider voting for J. Millard Tawes for the Democratic nomination for governor."

Mullikin, who was an official of the Federal Housing Administration until six months ago, said Tawes made a trip to Georgia in 1943 on rationed gasoline in a state-owned automobile.

"In May, when our sons were giving up their lives x x x and when the army's need for gasoline was so great as to require a ban on all pleasure driving," he said, Tawes made the trip.

Mullikin said "this man x x x must not be rewarded for his poor record as an official x x x by being nominated for the high office of governor."

He said that Lane "is honest, able and forthright and will give the state a good administration."

Elgin Comments on Switch

He told reporters that sections of the bill setting up a federal mediation board and fact-finding boards would provide a delay of at least sixty days in the shipping strike merely by government intervention.

Mr. Truman has until midnight June 12 to sign or veto the bill.

House supporters of the Case legislation announced 135 signatures to a petition calling on the president to sign it.

Opponents reported "more than 100" signers to their petition requesting a veto.

Leaders of both sides declared they are circulating the petitions because of reports that Mr. Truman still is undecided. They hope to influence his decision by showing him what the breakdown would be on a vote if he vetoes the bill.

Umberto Is Expected To Urge Italian Unity In Farewell Message

ROME, June 6 (AP)—King Umberto II tonight was drafting a farewell message expected to urge unity for the new Italian republic, already confronted with muttering of secession in the South, before joining his queen en route to exile in Portugal.

The royal household announced officially that Queen Marie Jose and her four children were on their way to Portugal aboard the Italian cruiser Duca Degli Abruzzi, and Umberto was expected to follow after giving a final message to the nation. His family ruled Italy for seventy-five years and his reign lasted just under a month.

Talk of secession came from the south of Italy, which saw its overwhelming monarchial vote in the plebiscite go for naught in the face of the North's heavy vote for the republic. There was open discussion in Naples, royalist stronghold, about breaking with the North.

Gravediggers Strike

FAIRVIEW, N. J., June 6. (AP)—Twenty-one gravediggers at the Fairview cemetery struck today for a twelve and a half cents hourly increase, and four bodies scheduled for burial were placed in a mausoleum pending settlement of the dispute.

Porter Attacks Senate Banking Group's OPA Bill

Statement Underscores Taft's Comment That Senate Battle Looms

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—Price Administrator Paul Porter asserted tonight that "effective price and control will end" if the Senate Banking committee's OPA extension bill becomes law.

His statement attacking the measure served to underscore the comment of Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) that a major battle may be expected when the Senate takes it up next week, especially over a provision lifting meat and dairy price controls at the end of this month.

Though they are on opposite sides of the issue, Porter in his formal statement and Taft in talking to reporters laid their emphasis on the same points—the meat and dairy price ceilings questions and the regulations on profit margin allowances.

Taft Expects Quarrel

Taft, who supported in committee the lifting of the meat and dairy ceilings, said he expected the big quarrel over that point. He added that sharp debate is likely on a committee-approved rule forbidding OPA to force cost absorption upon dealers in "conversion" items such as automobiles, refrigerators, and radios.

He said also that he will try to write in on the floor his own amendment to require that manufacturers be allowed their 1941 prices plus the industry's average unit increase in costs since then.

Porter, in his statement, asserted his belief that if the measure passes as it now stands, meat will rise forty to fifty per cent in price and the cost of butter, milk, cream and cheese will soar.

He said further that the effects would spread from that point to other items of the national economy.

Bill Is Sent to Senate

He added: "The net result of these amendements would be that the city worker and everybody else pays more for his food. The farmer and everybody else pays more for his clothing, tools and the electrical equipment he's been saving his money for. We couldn't meet our commitments to feed famine-stricken allies."

The Banking committee, which

Eisenhower Asks Draft Extension

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—With the final form of the draft extension highly uncertain, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said tonight that "the pool of potential volunteers is drying up" and "Selective Service must supplement enlistments."

"For this purpose eighteen months of service is a fair contribution to ask of any young man," the chief of staff declared. "The security of our own country and the continuing peace of our world are worth it. It is far less than we asked of the soldiers who fought to make possible a peaceful world."

Eisenhower prepared his remarks for an NBC broadcast commemorating the second anniversary of the landings in Normandy which he commanded as supreme Allied commander.

Meanwhile a final congressional decision on the future of the draft awaited conferences between the Senate and House to adjust their differences over the length and terms of the extension.

One of the chief issues is whether teen-ageers should be drafted again after the present stopgap extension expires July 1. The measure passed by the Senate yesterday would permit 18 and 19 year-olds to be called, but the House previously had disapproved.

PRESIDENT SHAKES HANDS WITH NOMINEES

Moslem Council Accepts British Free-India Plan

Establishment of Separate State Remains League's Objective

NEW DELHI, June 6 (AP)—The Moslem League's council accepted tonight the British cabinet mission's plan for an independent federated union of India, but reiterated that establishment of a separate Moslem state (Pakistan) remained the Moslems' "unalterable objective."

The council for the league, which claims to be the spokesman for 90,000,000 Moslems in India, said its action was "prompted by its earnest desire for a peaceful solution, if possible, of the Indian problem."

In a resolution, the council declared that "the basis and foundation of Pakistan are inherent" in the British plan, by virtue of the plan's reference to "compulsory regrouping" of six provinces in which the Moslems claim they are the dominant majority.

The league retains the right, the council asserted, to advise secession of Moslem groups from any federation of India resulting from the British plan. For achievement of Pakistan the Moslems will, "if necessary, employ every means in their power and consider no sacrifice or suffering too great," the council added.

The resolution, passed by virtually unanimous vote of the council, instructed its president, Mahomed Ali Jinnah, to negotiate with Viceroy Lord Wavell on participation in an interim central government.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, a leader of the other major Indian political party, the All-India Congress party, has already spoken in favor of following the British proposals.

Barrymore Is Out

HOLLYWOOD, June 6. (AP)—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studio announced today that Lionel Barrymore will not portray President Roosevelt in its forthcoming film, "The Beginning of the End," because the Roosevelt family did not approve casting him in the role.

U. N. Council Delays Debate On Proposed Spanish Break

New Drug Offers Hope To Hay Fever Sufferers

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—Dr. Alexander D. Ghiselin, Jr., of Presbyterian hospital, reports that a new drug—anthallan—"when used in doses of three to twelve capsules daily" over a period of one to five weeks offers hope to millions of American hay fever sufferers.

Writing in the June issue of the Bulletin of the New York Academy of Medicine, Dr. Ghiselin says tests and clinical studies conducted in forty-two cases at the Columbia University Presbyterian hospital medical center indicated anthallan was "a useful drug for obtaining relief in a high percentage of cases of seasonal and non-seasonal rhinitis."

U. S. and Britain Request More Time To Decide Their Position

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP) — The United Nations Security Council yielded to a request by the United States and Great Britain today for postponement of full-dress debate on a proposal for a complete United Nations diplomatic break with Generalissimo Franco's Spain by next September.

Both Herschel V. Johnson, sitting for the first time as the United States delegate, and Sir Alexander Cadogan, of Great Britain, said their governments had not had time to decide their position on the Spanish issue. They requested that the discussion be put off.

When it became apparent that no one wanted to start the long-expected debate, Council President Alexandre Parodi, of France, announced adjournment until next Tuesday.

The question before the council was a formal proposal by Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian delegate and chairman of the council subcommittee which investigated Spain, to approve the recommendations his group had reached after a month-long study.

The subcommittee decided that the Franco regime is a "potential threat to world peace and should be isolated unless Franco is ousted by September.

The group suggested that the Security council convey to the General Assembly, which meets here in September, a recommendation that every member of the United Nations break off relations with Franco if he still is in power by that time.

Dr. Evatt, also sitting for the first time in the council, told his fellow delegates and a crowded council chamber that as long as "Franco remains in power there is likely to be a situation of international concern."

Johnson immediately requested the discussion be put off. Sir Alexander supported Johnson.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Russian delegate, did not say a word during the session.

Prior to submission of the subcommittee report, Parodi expressed the council's regret at the resignation Monday of Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., as the United States delegate. Parodi at that time welcomed Johnson, who will serve as acting delegate until Sen. Warren R. Austin (R-Vt) takes the delegate's post next January 3.

Hotel Fire Death Toll Reaches 59

CHICAGO, June 6 (AP)—Investigators seeking to establish the source of a flash fire which killed fifty-nine persons in the LaSalle hotel early yesterday were told today the flames raced through the lobby like a "streak of lightning" preventing employes from fighting the blaze with fire extinguishers.

The informal testimony was given by Emil Landsnes, a freight elevator operator, as the grim job of identifying the dead neared completion. Only two bodies remained unidentified—a woman and another victim of undetermined sex.

The death toll rose to fifty-nine today when Miss Opal Sweat, 19, Tampa, Fla., died at Passavant hospital.

Another elevator operator, Eddie Kowalske, testified he first discovered the fire at 2:14 a. m. The fire department reported the day of the fire that it received the first call from the hotel at 12:35 a. m.

The inquiry of hotel employes and patrons was conducted by Harry Eckhardt, assistant corporation counsel acting as fire attorney.

Landsnes said he had been sent to the basement to obtain fire extinguishers when the first alarm was spread, but that the lobby was almost enveloped in flame when he returned a short while later.

"The flame spread like a streak of lightning," he said. "The wood didn't seem to be burning; just the varnish on top."

House Passes Rivers, Harbors Bill, 208 to 68

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP) — The House passed by a standing vote of 208 to 68 today the first big rivers and harbors bill since before the war.

The bill proposes an expenditure of more than $900,000,000 for navigation, flood control, hydro-electric power and related works throughout the country.

An economy move eliminated the $83,000,000 Big Sandy canalization plan in West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia.

While the bill makes no appropriation, the fifty approved projects become eligible for construction if and when Congress later votes the money. The measure goes next to the Senate.

Sen. Taft Says Bowles "Slandered" Congress for Price Control Stand

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP) — Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) declared tonight that Stabilization Director Chester Bowles had "slandered" Congress for its stand on price control.

Taft replied in a broadcast prepared for the CBS network to Bowles's Tuesday night speech in which the administration official referred to the curtailed and amended version of the price control extension bill as "a monstrous thing."

"Mr. Bowles is an advertising man and is not concerned with facts," Taft declared.

"Congress listened for weeks to testimony regarding the facts. No one could have listened to that testimony without being convinced that in many cases OPA is unjust, unrealistic and illogical."

Taft said all that Congress proposes to do in the pending extension legislation is "to force the gradual decontrol of prices and impose some legislative restrictions on Mr. Bowles's arbitrary powers."

"Mr. Bowles slanders Congress by representing it as a group of weaklings, yielding to every cry for more profits," Taft said. "The truth is that if they were that kind of weaklings, Mr. Bowles's pressure groups are three times as strong as any group of business organizations."

The senator declared OPA has admitted spending $2,500,000 a year for publicity, and declared it has "repeatedly violated the law against spending government money to pressure Congress."

Taft asserted that Bowles made six specific misstatements in his Tuesday broadcast: By declaring that production since V-J day has risen to record peacetime levels; by saying that people have prospered because of price controls; by asserting that OPA recently increased dairy prices because Congress intended to reduce subsidies; by exaggerating the effects of removing subsidies; by blaming the lack of meat on Congress, and by claiming that Taft advocated raising the price level by fifteen per cent.

Chief Executive Chooses Snyder To Be Secretary Of the Treasury

John L. Sullivan Is Nominated To Be Undersecretary of Navy

Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion Will Come to End

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—Fred M. Vinson, of Kentucky, former congressman, judge and reconversion director and now secretary of the treasury, was nominated by President Truman today to be chief justice of the United States.

In an action-packed news conference, Mr. Truman also announced two other nominations to high posts:

1. To be secretary of the treasury, John W. Snyder, now director of war mobilization and reconversion;

2. To be undersecretary of the navy, John L. Sullivan, now assistant secretary of the navy.

Mr. Truman made his decision on Vinson only an hour and half before his news conference, he said, and his sudden disclosure of all three nominations at once startled the capital.

OWMR Will Expire

The Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion, which Snyder now heads, will come to an end, the president said, indicating that no successor will be named. In reply to a question, Mr. Truman added that most of the reconversion problems it was set up to handle are over.

Mindful of reported conflicting views in the past between Snyder and Chester Bowles, former price administrator and now stabilization director, reporters also asked whether Bowles now becomes the top man in the stabilization setup. Mr. Truman replied that Bowles will continue in his present job as it is now functioning.

Snyder, a former St. Louis banker, has been one of the president's closest advisers on economic, labor and other matters.

Vinson, known as "Judge" to his intimates, was named secretary of the treasury by Mr. Truman last July to succeed Henry Morgenthau, Jr., now an open critic of the chief executive. Vinson served fourteen years in the House until President Roosevelt appointed him to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia in 1938. Subsequently he was reconversion director.

Undecided on Case Bill

Sullivan, now assistant secretary of the navy for air, will get the post of undersecretary to which Mr. Truman originally appointed Edwin W. Pauley, California oil man. The controversy over Pauley's nomination, during which Harold L. Ickes

Maryland Will Have Surplus of $7,704,000 On June 30, Tawes Says

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 6 (AP)—Greatly increased revenues, and savings in appropriations will leave the State of Maryland with a surplus of approximately $7,704,000 on June 30, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes disclosed today.

Tawes said the state had realized funds substantially larger than estimated, in racing, public utility gross taxes, and taxes on motor vehicle titling, alcoholic beverages, inheritance and recordation of deeds and mortgages.

"In the aggregate," the comptroller reported, "it is expected that in total the revenues will exceed the estimates by $6,945,000.

Reversions of appropriations, he added, would exceed the estimate by $800,000, and the net surplus would approximate $7,704,000.

Man Who Delivers Mail for Circus Finds Job Tough but Interesting

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—It's a very tough but interesting life, this delivering the mail for a circus.

Each day 2,000 letters and parcels arrive for the 1,400 people scampering around the Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey lot.

And Alex Neuburger, one-time acrobat, part-time clown and bustling letter-carrier, not only has to make two deliveries a day. He also must decide who should get such letter as the one addressed to:

"The girl working that trapeze in front of Section C and later paraded with a poodle."

This was a hard cookie to figure out, Neuburger explained to a reporter today as he hustled from one tent to another. No one seemed to know exactly who filled the description.

But once he hit on the solution, the answer was pretty simple. He went down to section C, sat through the acts, and looked for himself.

What makes Neuburger's job particularly rugged is that he has to be a walking post office. He lugs the mail, sure. But he also totes along money order blanks, scales, postage stamps, post cards and envelopes.

Then, too, there's the brief appearance he must make in the show. You know the act in which a standard coupe is driven in, and out pile twenty midgets and one giant? Well, Alec is the standard size guy who drives the coupe.

Brought up by his parents to be a bookkeeper in Germany, Alec decided being an acrobat was more fun. He's been in this country since

Kent R. Mullikin, Announcing His Support of Lane, Assails Tawes

BALTIMORE, June 6 (AP)—Kent R. Mullikin, former Democratic floor leader in the Maryland House of Delegates, announced tonight his support of William Preston Lane, Jr., for the party's gubernatorial nomination.

He said in a formal statement that "it is shocking to me that anyone, except William Curran and the members of his political machine, could seriously consider voting for J. Millard Tawes for the Democratic nomination for governor."

Mullikin, who was an official of the Federal Housing Administration until six months ago, said Tawes made a trip to Georgia in 1943 on rationed gasoline in a state-owned automobile.

"In May, when our sons were giving up their lives x x x and when the army's need for gasoline was so great as to require a ban on all pleasure driving," he said, Tawes made the trip.

Mullikin said "this man x x x must not be rewarded for his poor record as an official x x x by being nominated for the high office of governor."

He said that Lane "is honest, able and forthright and will give the state a good administration."

Elgin Comments on Switch

BALTIMORE, June 6 (AP)—Campaign headquarters of State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, said today "there has been no desertion by any on whom we have depended" for support in Cecil county.

Cumberland To Get Federal Money For Street Work

City Will Be Eligible for $68,202 under Highway Act

ANNAPOLIS, June 6 (AP) — The state roads commission reported to Gov. O'Conor today that all work on Maryland primary and secondary roads will be under contract in time to qualify for funds under the Federal Highway act.

The commission said it had submitted maps and descriptions of the urban area sections to receive federal funds to the public roads administration on March 28.

Although there has been no written confirmation, the report said, the commission has been given to understand that the plans have been approved by the PRA.

Under the provisions of the act Baltimore, two districts in Baltimore county and nine other Maryland cities would be eligible for a total of $1,790,081 in urban area road funds, apportioned in this manner, the report said:

Annapolis, $22,555; Baltimore, $1,485,409; Baltimore county district 12, $26,672; Baltimore county district 13, $23,092; Cambridge, $17,543; Cumberland, $68,202; Frederick, $27,388; Frostburg, $13,247; Hagerstown, $56,209; Hyattsville, $56,209; Salisbury, $11,277, and Takoma Park, $15,395.

Funds for the areas are apportioned among the states in the ratio the population in municipalities of 5,000 or more bears to the total population in all the states.

On the primary roads system, contracts have been awarded in excess of $1,300,000 of the $1,800,000 federal allocation. The balance will be put under contract in the near future, the commission said.

The report stated there would be "no question" but that the commission would be able to get all the work in the program for secondary roads before the deadline of June 30, 1947.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said last night he was aware the money would be available to the city and that it would be used to improve streets. A program for its use has not been worked out.

Police and Fire Group Donates to Leo Memorial

The Cumberland Police and Firemen Welfare Association has donated $50 toward the memorial for Lieut. Nancy Leo, the only Cumberland servicewoman to lose her life during World War II, according to Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan.

Lieut. Leo, a member of the Army Nurse Corps, was killed in a jeep accident near Paris, France, in 1945. She was a daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Leo and the late Officer Francis P. Leo. It is planned to erect a bronze plaque in Riverside Park in memory of Lieut. Leo .

200 Pheasant Eggs Are Received Here

Assistant County Agent Joseph Steger yesterday received 200 pheasant eggs from the state game warden which will be distributed to 4-H Club boys who will use bantam hens for hatching the eggs. The pheasants will eventually be turned loose to increase the wild life in the county, Steger said.

The eggs were shipped to Steger by Howard P. Smith, Denton, Md., acting on the request of state game officials.

Kiwanians Hear Boy Legislators Relate Experiences

Donald Screen, of Fort Hill high school, and Stanley Bishop, of Allegany high, related their experiences while attending the boys' legislature at Annapolis last month which was sponsored by the Maryland YMCA youth and government program.

The young men were introduced by Robert L. Sisson, general secretary of Central YMCA. A question and answer period followed the talks by Screen and Bishop.

James R. Smith, estimating engineer for an insulation firm, was introduced as a new member by O. J. Hale, president of the club.

Preceding the program members of the club stood silently for a few seconds followed by a prayer by the Rev. Joseph W. Young, pastor of the Cumberland Circuit Methodist churches, as a tribute to the memory of John I. Vandegrift, a member of the club who died of a heart attack at last week's meeting of the organization.

Eleven To Graduate In Youngest Class

A class of eleven boys and girls, all under six years of age, who attended the Keating Memorial Day Nursery in preparation for school work next year, will receive diplomas Sunday at the nursery. This is Cumberland's "youngest graduating class."

Members of the class will participate in the graduation exercises, with recitations.

Local News in Brief

A meeting wil be held at the state armory Tuesday at 8 p. m. for all army reserve officers. Matters pertaining to organization will be discussed.

Allegany high school class of 1942 will hold a reunion and dance at Clary Club tonight.

The Progressive Young Women's Club of Potomac Valley will meet at 8 tonight at the home of Mrs. J. W. Loar.

A rummage sale will be held at St. Luke's Lutheran church at 6:30 tonight.

Mrs. Paul Heuer will return to her home, 811 Bedford street, today after being a patient in Memorial hospital for the past seven weeks, following a fall at her home.

Clyde D. Turner, 429 Forster avenue, was granted a permit in the city engineer's office yesterday to build a sunporch and cellar entrance at his home. The one-story addition will measure 6 by 10 feet, with a foundation of concrete block, frame walls covered with brick siding, and a roof of slate surfaced composition. Work, to be done by the owner, is estimated to cost $150.

There will be no services at the Pentecostal Holiness church, South Lee street, Sunday because of the annual meeting of the Maryland Conference at the Pentecostal Holiness church in Piedmont, W. Va., where a three-day session will open today.

Chief Judge William A. Huster yesterday awarded an absolute divorce to Mrs. Mary F. Gerlach, 36, McMullen highway, an employe of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, from Earl W. Gerlach. According to the petition filed by Edward J. Ryan, they were married in Oakland in 1926 and separated in 1945. Desertion was charged.

Robert L. Sisson, general secretary of Central YMCA, and his daughter, Lorraine, will leave today for Binghamton, N. Y., where they will visit the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Sisson. They plan to return Sunday.

Motor Club Plans Public Safety Educational Drive

Plans for a safety educational program for the general public and motorists were formulated at the dinner-meeting of the Western Maryland Motor Club last evening at the Queen City hotel. It will be in connection with President Truman's safety meeting and posters and pamphlets will be distributed for display and the directors will distribute stickers to motorists for their windshields.

J. Walter Byer will appoint an educational committee, in the near future, to promote the safety drive in Cumberland.

Cpl. Charles Disney of the Maryland State Police, was the guest speaker. Discussing a safety drive he based his talk on three major factors, traffic engineering, enforcement and stressed educating the public and motorists in a safety program.

Mrs. Mary Finan reported seven new members were enrolled during May. Daniel D'Amical reported the success of the patrol rally and parade and the group voted to sponsor the Junior Safety Council for the next school year.

George Erling reported that the national AAA has a membership of 1,527,036; and that since January 1 the local club has increased from 185 to 230; and now has a permanent secretary to give information to local and out of town members; and that they will soon have a new list of garages and service stations to distribute to members.

Mrs. Mary Brewer was in charge of arrangements for the dinner. Covers were laid for sixteen guests.

Equivalence Tests Set for Next Month

Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools, said yesterday that the next high school equivalence examinations will be given at the administration building of the board of education on July 12 and 13.

Three returned war veterans have already announced their intentions of taking the examinations, Rizer said, and more are expected to announce their intentions.

Candidates who successfully pass the examinations will receive equivalence certificates which are given the same recognition as high school diplomas by college registrars. The examinations cover all phases of high school work and are comprehensive in nature.

spokes of a wheel, comprising a total of eighteen thousand feet of wire.

For further improvement of the ground system, a copper mesh screen has been placed immediately beneath the tower to get as efficient a connection to the ground as possible. This is as important as the tower itself in assuring maximum range of transmission, Jefferies said.

Each of the four legs of the tower, placed seven feet apart, is set on a large porcelain strain insulator. Tower weight on the insulators totals four tons. The tower stands by itself, requiring no supporting guy wires, and it is protected from serious lightning damage by a lightning arrester.

Beacon Installed

Foundations of reinforced concrete, placed on shale rock, go down to a depth of six feet. Jeffries said that Construction Superintendent Alf Olsen of a New York antenna construction firm, who supervised the crew of about a dozen local men who installed the tower, stated that the foundation was the most secure of any tower he had erected in his thirteen years of experience.

A 1,000-watt flashing beacon, with forty flashes per minute, is mounted atop the tower, providing night illumination from sunset to sunrise as required by the Civil Aeronautics Authority. The marker will be indicated on all airways maps as a "true" light, one which meets all specifications for intensity and reliability. The tower is also painted up to the top in alternate stripes of international orange and white, as required by the CAA.

Jefferies, who has been in radio engineering for twelve years, was attached to the Alaska outpost bureau of the Office of War Information before coming to Cumberland. He is the author of a recent technical article on radar in the Aero Digest, a bi-monthly scientific publication.

Large Crowd Sees

Drill teams and marching units from Lonaconing, Friendsville, Mt. Savage, Midland, Cresaptown, Oakland, Westernport and other towns, drew much applause as they marched in perfect cadence and did their fancy and trick drills with ease. All of the units have colorful uniforms, some blue, some green, some bright orange, some white and some in striking combinations.

The Ladies Auxiliary unit of Bloomington, was outstanding among the marchers. This drill team of about sixteen attractive young women practically "stole the show" from the men, except that Mt. Savage firemen, "can drill too", as one observer remarked.

There were other units in the parade which should be mentioned, including a delegation from Corriganville school, color guards, a jeep, gaily decorated bicycles and even "Buck" Dreyer's famed rescue squad car, towing an ancient hose cart, formerly used in Cumberland.

Another Parade Tonight

A second street parade, featuring bands and fire engines will be held tonight. Today has been designated as "out of state day", and firemen from nearby towns in West Virginia and Pennsylvania, as well as units in the two counties have been invited to participate in the parade at 7 p. m. Following the parade, a dance will be held.

The convention and celebration, will end Saturday with a dance and grand finale in the firemen's hall from 9 until 12.

Stocksdale Backs Mills

BALTIMORE, June 6 (AP)—William J. Stocksdale, who was treasurer of Theodore R. McKeldin's volunteer campaign committee when the latter was a mayoral candidate, announced tonight he will support Herman L. Mills, the mayor's opponent for the GOP gubernatorial nomination.

Stocksdale has been active in Republican politics in Baltimore for many years and is a former police and traffic court magistrate.

Except to say that he had withdrawn his support from McKeldin, Stocksdale made no further mention of the mayor in his statement.

Radcliffe Hits O'Conor

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md., June 6 (AP)—Sen. Radcliffe (D-Md) today accused Gov. O'Conor, his opponent for the senatorial nomination in the June 24 primaries, of "talking both ways" on the question of labor-management relations.

In a speech at a Calvert county Democratic rally, he said O'Conor was "too cautious" to express his ideas on the issues of the campaign.

"I have voted on many trial and error labor bills prepared by abler students of the problem than either I or the governor will ever be," Radcliffe said.

"It would be interesting to hear the governor's opinion on some of them, to know if he is for labor or capital."

voted on the last disputed provisions of the bill yesterday, dotted a few I's in it today and sent it on to the Senate without a record vote.

To Majority Leader Barkley (Ky), a high-ranking member of the committee, fell the task of formally reporting it to the Senate. The chore usually would be performed by the chairman, Sen. Court Reserves Decision in Suit Over Divorce

Chief Judge William A. Huster yesterday reserved decision following a hearing on the petition of Mrs. William T. Riley, Cumberland, who died in 1945, to have the local court void a divorce decree obtained by her husband in 1936 in Mineral county, W. Va.

The court was called upon to distinguish between a "direct" and "collateral" attack upon a divorce decree handed down in another state and whether in either case the local court has the power to declare such a divorce null and void.

Directed at the administrator and heirs of her husband's estate, said to approximate $20,000, Mrs. Riley's petition claims that her husband's divorce was gotten by fraud in Mineral county where he represented himself to be a citizen of West Virginia although he never ceased to be a resident of Allegany county after he deserted her in 1922.

The widow's petition cites that she had never been notified of the Mineral county divorce until after her husband's death when it was "flashed" on her to prove that she had no claim to any share in his estate.

William A. Gunter, attorney, representing John H. Riley, administrator of the estate involved, argued that the manner of Mrs. Riley's petition constituted a "direct" attack upon the Mineral county divorce decree granted her husband, and that to have it rescienced the court action should be brought before the tribunal where the alleged fraud was perpetrated.

The attorney conceded that if Mrs. Riley's attack had followed a "collateral" method of approach, such as litigation over her husband's local real estate holdings, then the local court might conceivably be called upon to rule on the validity of his Mineral county divorce decree.

James C. Burch, of Baltimore, counsel for Mrs. Riley, argued that the fraud worked by his client's husband had victimized both the Mineral county court and Mrs. Riley's property rights, and that she, as a perpetual resident of Maryland, had a right to seek relief in the Allegany county court.

At the conclusion of the arguments, Judge Huster described the question of his jurisdiction in the case a "fine one to decide" and held his decision in abeyance.

F. Brooke Whiting was co-counsel with Burch for Mrs. Riley.

"We are very appreciative of the public's cooperation in the ignoring of these unfair labor practices and are glad to say that our business has been, in no way, affected by the picketing of the store although all picket laws have been violated. We have no intention to sign any agreement that is unfair and un-American."

The Mr. McGinnis mentioned is William McGinnis, Pittsburgh, international representative for the union. Travers is Lester E. Travers, New York, a representative of the AFL Meat Cutters Union.

Cites Demands

McGinnis yesterday said the sole issues which hamper the settlement of the dispute is the union's demand for a closed shop and the refusal of a cashier-secretary in the store to join the union.

He declared the union has not asked the discharge of any shop employe but only that the members in question join the union.

The union official said all picketing at the store has been "peaceful" and declared the union is only insisting on its constitutional rights.

He listed the chief union demands as a union shop (but added the union has agreed to eliminate two veterans from the provisions), a forty-hour week with time and one-half for overtime, six paid holidays, six days sick leave and a minimum weekly wage increase of $6.

Cumberland To Get Federal Money For Street Work

City Will Be Eligible for $68,202 under Highway Act

ANNAPOLIS, June 6 (AP) — The state roads commission reported to Gov. O'Conor today that all work on Maryland primary and secondary roads will be under contract in time to qualify for funds under the Federal Highway act.

The commission said it had submitted maps and descriptions of the urban area sections to receive federal funds to the public roads administration on March 26.

Although there has been no written confirmation, the report said, the commission has been given to understand that the plans have been approved by the PRA.

Under the provisions of the act Baltimore, two districts in Baltimore county and nine other Maryland cities would be eligible for a total of $1,790,081 in urban area road funds, apportioned in this manner, the report said:

Annapolis, $22,555; Baltimore, $1,485,409; Baltimore county district 12, $26,672; Baltimore county district 13, $23,092; Cambridge, $17,543; Cumberland, $68,202; Frederick, $27,388; Frostburg, $13,247; Hagerstown, $56,209; Hyattsville, $56,209; Salisbury, $11,277, and Takoma Park, $15,395.

Funds for the areas are apportioned among the states in the ratio the population in municipalities of 5,000 or more bears to the total population in all the states.

On the primary roads system, contracts have been awarded in excess of $1,300,000 of the $1,800,000 federal allocation. The balance will be put under contract in the near future, the commission said.

The report stated there would be "no question" but that the commission would be able to get all the work in the program for secondary roads before the deadline of June 30, 1947.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said last night he was aware the money would be available to the city and that it would be used to improve streets. A program for its use has not been worked out.

Police and Fire Group Donates to Leo Memorial

The Cumberland Police and Firemen Welfare Association has donated $50 toward the memorial for Lieut. Nancy Leo, the only Cumberland servicewoman to lose her life during World War II, according to Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan.

Lieut. Leo, a member of the Army Nurse Corps, was killed in a jeep accident near Paris, France, in 1945. She was a daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Leo and the late Officer Francis P. Leo. It is planned to erect a bronze plaque in Riverside Park in memory of Lieut. Leo.

200 Pheasant Eggs Are Received Here

Assistant County Agent Joseph Steger yesterday received 200 pheasant eggs from the state game warden which will be distributed to 4-H Club boys who will use bantam hens for hatching the eggs. The pheasants will eventually be turned loose to increase the wild life in the county, Steger said.

The eggs were shipped to Steger by Howard P. Smith, Denton, Md., acting on the request of state game officials.

Kiwanians Hear Boy Legislators Relate Experiences

Donald Screen, of Fort Hill high school, and Stanley Bishop, of Allegany high, related their experiences while attending the boys' legislature at Annapolis last month which was sponsored by the Maryland YMCA youth and government program.

The young men were introduced by Robert L. Sisson, general secretary of Central YMCA. A question and answer period followed the talks by Screen and Bishop.

James R. Smith, estimating engineer for an insulation firm, was introduced as a new member by O. J. Hale, president of the club.

Preceding the program members of the club stood silently for a few seconds followed by a prayer by the Rev. Joseph W. Young, pastor of the Cumberland Circuit Methodist churches, as a tribute to the memory of John I. Vandegrift, a member of the club who died of a heart attack at last week's meeting of the organization.

Eleven To Graduate In Youngest Class

A class of eleven boys and girls, all under six years of age, who attended the Keating Memorial Day Nursery in preparation for school work next year, will receive diplomas Sunday at the nursery. This is Cumberland's "youngest graduating class."

Members of the class will participate in the graduation exercises, with recitations.

Local News in Brief

A meeting wil be held at the state armory Tuesday at 8 p. m. for all army reserve officers. Matters pertaining to organization will be discussed.

Allegany high school class of 1942 will hold a reunion and dance at Clary Club tonight.

The Progressive Young Women's Club of Potomac Valley will meet at 8 tonight at the home of Mrs. J. W. Loar.

A rummage sale will be held at St. Luke's Lutheran church at 6:30 tonight.

Mrs. Paul Heuer will return to her home, 811 Bedford street, today after being a patient in Memorial hospital for the past seven weeks, following a fall at her home.

Clyde D. Turner, 429 Forster avenue, was granted a permit in the city engineer's office yesterday to build a sunporch and cellar entrance at his home. The one-story addition will measure 6 by 10 feet, with a foundation of concrete block, frame walls covered with brick siding, and a roof of slate surfaced composition. Work, to be done by the owner, is estimated to cost $150.

There will be no services at the Pentecostal Holiness church, South Lee street, Sunday because of the annual meeting of the Maryland Conference at the Pentecostal Holiness church in Piedmont, W. Va., where a three-day session will open today.

Chief Judge William A. Huster yesterday awarded an absolute divorce to Mrs. Mary F. Gerlach, 36, McMullen highway, an employe of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, from Earl W. Gerlach. According to the petition filed by Edward J. Ryan, they were married in Oakland in 1926 and separated in 1945. Desertion was charged.

Robert L. Sisson, general secretary of Central YMCA, and his daughter, Lorraine, will leave today for Binghamton, N. Y., where they will visit the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Sisson. They plan to return Sunday.

Motor Club Plans Public Safety Educational Drive

Plans for a safety educational program for the general public and motorists were formulated at the dinner-meeting of the Western Maryland Motor Club last evening at the Queen City hotel. It will be in connection with President Truman's safety meeting and posters and pamphlets will be distributed for display and the directors will distribute stickers to motorists for their windshields.

J. Walter Byer will appoint an educational committee, in the near future, to promote the safety drive in Cumberland.

Cpl. Charles Disney of the Maryland State Police, was the guest speaker. Discussing a safety drive he based his talk on three major factors, traffic engineering, enforcement and stressed educating the public and motorists in a safety program.

Mrs. Mary Finan reported seven new members were enrolled during May. Daniel D'Amical reported the success of the patrol rally and parade and the group voted to sponsor the Junior Safety Council for the next school year.

George Erling reported that the national AAA has a membership of 1,527,036; and that since January 1 the local club has increased from 185 to 230; and now has a permanent secretary to give information to local and out of town members; and that they will soon have a new list of garages and service stations to distribute to members.

Mrs. Mary Brewer was in charge of arrangements for the dinner. Covers were laid for sixteen guests.

Equivalence Tests Set for Next Month

Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools, said yesterday that the next high school equivalence examinations will be given at the administration building of the board of education on July 12 and 13.

Three returned war veterans have already announced their intentions of taking the examinations, Rizer said, and more are expected to announce their intentions.

Candidates who successfully pass the examinations will receive equivalence certificates which are given the same recognition as high school diplomas by college registrars. The examinations cover all phases of high school work and are comprehensive in nature.

spokes of a wheel, comprising a total of eighteen thousand feet of wire.

For further improvement of the ground system, a copper mesh screen has been placed immediately beneath the tower to get as efficient a connection to the ground as possible. This is as important as the tower itself in assuring maximum range of transmission, Jefferies said.

Each of the four legs of the tower, placed seven feet apart, is set on a large porcelain strain insulator. Tower weight on the insulators totals four tons. The tower stands by itself, requiring no supporting guy wires, and it is protected from serious lightning damage by a lightning arrester.

Beacon Installed

Foundations of reinforced concrete, placed on shale rock, go down to a depth of six feet. Jeffries said that Construction Superintendent Alf Olsen of a New York antenna construction firm, who supervised the crew of about a dozen local men who installed the tower, stated that the foundation was the most secure of any tower he had erected in his thirteen years of experience.

A 1,000-watt flashing beacon, with forty flashes per minute, is mounted atop the tower, providing night illumination from sunset to sunrise as required by the Civil Aeronautics Authority. The marker will be indicated on all airways maps as a "true" light, one which meets all specifications for intensity and reliability. The tower is also painted up to the top in alternate stripes of international orange and white, as required by the CAA.

Jefferies, who has been in radio engineering for twelve years, was attached to the Alaska outpost bureau of the Office of War Information before coming to Cumberland. He is the author of a recent technical article on radar in the Aero Digest, a bi-monthly scientific publication.

Drill teams and marching units from Lonaconing, Friendsville, Mt. Savage, Midland, Cresaptown, Oakland, Westernport and other towns, drew much applause as they marched in perfect cadence and did their fancy and trick drills with ease. All of the units have colorful uniforms, some blue, some green, some bright orange, some white and some in striking combinations.

The Ladies Auxiliary unit of Bloomington, was outstanding among the marchers. This drill team of about sixteen attractive young women practically "stole the show" from the men, except that Mt. Savage firemen, "can drill too", as one observer remarked.

There were other units in the parade which should be mentioned, including a delegation from Corriganville school, color guards, a jeep, gaily decorated bicycles and even "Buck" Dreyer's famed rescue squad car, towing an ancient hose cart, formerly used in Cumberland.

Another Parade Tonight

A second street parade, featuring bands and fire engines will be held tonight. Today has been designated as "out of state day", and firemen from nearby towns in West Virginia and Pennsylvania, as well as units in the two counties have been invited to participate in the parade at 7 p. m. Following the parade, a dance will be held.

The convention and celebration, will end Saturday with a dance and grand finale in the firemen's hall from 9 until 12.

Five Men Enlist For Naval Service

Five men of this area were accepted for enlistment in the United States Navy at the local recruiting office this week, according to Chief Boatswain's Mate Bradford Smith, local recruiter.

One man had previous service in the navy, two served in the merchant marine and two are new enlistees.

Clifton D. Spence, 28, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford E. Spence, 310 Woodside avenue, re-enlisted for three years as a quartermaster, third class. He had two years, eight months previous service.

Myron LeRoy Cockley, 18 son of Mrs. Nelsie Cockley of Schear, W. Va., enlisted for two years as an apprentice seaman. Delmar Lindley Schell, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Schell, Schear, W. Va., also enlisted for two years as an apprentice seaman. Both Cockley and Schell served in the Merchant Marine.

Ralph Curtis Kesner, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester D. Kesner, Maysville, W. Va., enlisted as an apprentice for two years.

James Donald Powers, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Powers, 77 North Water street, Frostburg, enlisted for three years as an apprentice seaman and electricians technical mate. He will go to Great Lakes Training station and then to college for ten months. He is a graduate of Beall high school and finished in the upper fifth of his class.

Stocksdale Backs Mills

BALTIMORE, June 6 (AP)—William J. Stocksdale, who was treasurer of Theodore R. McKeldin's volunteer campaign committee when the latter was a mayoral candidate, announced tonight he will support Herman L. Mills, the mayor's opponent for the GOP gubernatorial nomination.

Stocksdale has been active in Republican politics in Baltimore for many years and is a former police and traffic court magistrate.

Except to say that he had withdrawn his support from McKeldin, Stocksdale made no further mention of the mayor in his statement.

Radcliffe Hits O'Conor

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md., June 6 (AP)—Sen. Radcliffe (D-Md) today accused Gov. O'Conor, his opponent for the senatorial nomination in the June 24 primaries, of "talking both ways" on the question of labor-management relations.

In a speech at a Calvert county Democratic rally, he said O'Conor was "too cautious" to express his ideas on the issues of the campaign.

"I have voted on many trial and error labor bills prepared by abler students of the problem than either I or the governor will ever be," Radcliffe said.

"It would be interesting to hear the governor's opinion on some of them, to know if he is for labor or capital."

Maryland Timber Can Help Relieve Lumber Shortage

Forester Says State Will Help Mark Trees To Be Removed

The present scarcity of lumber needed in the veterans' home building program should receive the attention of those Maryland timber owners who are in a position to help increase production of this vital material, District Forester William H. Johnson said yesterday.

Congress has appropriated $15,000,000 for access roads to timber in the national forests of the Deep South and Far West but right here in Maryland, Johnson says, are stands of pine, poplar and other easily worked woods that could help out materially in the shortage at a very satisfactory money return.

The department of state forests and parks, Johnson said, is ready to co-operate with timber owners in marking trees to be taken from the stand in a way to insure maximum money returns, and at the same time to leave a healthy young growing stock for future timber crops.

Applications for this marking service should be made to the district forester, court house, Cumberland, who will assign an expert for the work. No charge is made for an examination of a timber tract to determine whether it is in condition to be logged, nor for marking up to twenty-five acres. For acreage in excess of twenty-five, a marking charge is made of $15 per day to cover expenses of the department's representative.

District Forester Johnson strongly urges all timber owners in Western Maryland to take advantage of this opportunity to contribute in a practical way to the veterans' housing program and at the same time realize on their forest capital.

Veteran of Army Service Signs Up For Duty in Navy

A veteran of two years' service in the army, Francis Samuel Burkett, Corriganville, has enlisted as a seaman first class in the navy, Chief Boatswain's Mate Bradford Smith, navy recruiter, said yesterday. Burkett, the husband of Mrs. Margaret M. Burkett, signed up for two years. He holds the army's European-African-Middle Eastern ribbon, the Good Conduct medal and World War II Victory ribbon.

Chief Smith reported two other enlistments Wednesday. Frederick Lee Keefauver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. Keefauver, Route 5, Cumberland, enlisted for three years as an apprentice seaman. Charles Arthur Metcalfe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur I. Metcalfe, Ridgeville, W. Va., enlisted for two years as an apprentice seaman.

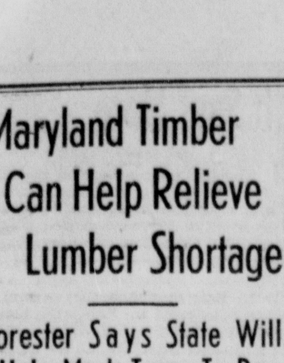

The recruiter reminded that navy veterans can re-enlist in grade within ninety days after discharge, but said he does not know how long this provision will continue. Former members of the army and coast guard with more than six months' service may enlist in the navy in the grade of seaman first class, Smith added.

Government Tampering Causes Food Failures

WHILE there is some reassurance in the report given out by the Millers National Federation that the new winter wheat crop in Texas and Oklahoma is running twenty-five per cent ahead of pre-harvest expectations, apprehensions obtain over the reports of the closing down of practically all the flour mills of the nation, the action of the federal Agriculture department in drafting a plan to dip into foreign relief wheat stocks and the reports that many shops in New York city and elsewhere are out of bread supplies.

As the Washington authorities have failed to furnish satisfactory information as to the causes of the wheat and bread situation, people are naturally anxious to learn how it has come to a point where for the first time in its history this nation is short of its staff of life with prospects that increasing numbers will have to go without it. It is pertinent, accordingly, to look to a representative of industry for some information as to the cause or causes.

Paul S. Willis, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, has given this in an address at a convention just held in Chicago. He said the government at Washington must bear full responsibility for the present shortages of grain in processing plants, for the growing dislocation of food operations and supplies, and for the confusion which now surrounds the entire food picture. For this reason, the people should be informed of the facts, he declared.

The present closing of food plants and flour mills because of a lack of supplies "is certainly not the fault of industry," Mr. Willis said, declaring that the food industry "has been helplessly under government regulations since early 1942."

"The government has been, and currently is, the self-appointed manager of the nation's food basket, and the government cannot escape responsibility for the current situation," Willis declared. "Government manipulation, tampering with sound business economics and its failure to plan ahead intelligently have all contributed to this situation."

The food industry fully recognizes the need for helping feed the hungry nations of the world and has done more than its part, not only in supplying food but in using all of the means at its command to co-operate with the faminie emergency program, Willis said. Yet, he continued, "government has jockeyed business into a public relations position where any protest by business about the government manipulation and mismanagement of the food situation is immediately interpreted as an attack on the famine relief program."

Asserting that "it is high time we extracted a bit of common sense out of this nonsense," Willis declared that the first thing the government must do is to take both the public and industry into its confidence about the entire food situation, and to deal with the public and industry openly and frankly. There was some excuse for secrecy during the war, but now that the war is over, he said, "it is an unwarranted use of administrative power to keep the essential facts away from the American people and from the food industry.

"Without the essential facts," Willis continued, "it is impossible for the industry accurately to appraise the situation or to do an intelligent job of short or long range planning. They do not know from day to day what raw materials are available or if they can keep their plants operating. The American people do not know what other nations are contributing.

"Some serious accusations have been made, which have not yet been denied. For example, according to the newspapers, there are a million tons of rice being held off the market in Siam. There is a shorter supply and a greater demand for rice than for any other grain. What happens to this million tons of rice in Siam means life or death to thousands in the Philippines, India and the Dutch East Indies.

"The United States wants to buy it. London is said to be insisting that Siam is within the British sphere of economc control. So it is not being used to relieve famine because of Britain's desire to protect her long-range economic position in the Orient. This and similar incidents indicate that the American people should know all of the facts."

Thus, as Willis indicates, bureaucratic inferference and fumbling with the natural economic processes have brought about the present deplorable situation and he hits the nail on the head in saying that it is high time to extract a bit of common sense out "all this nonsense." That may be possible as a result of public protest, although not probable at least until some extraneous conditions develop, because of the lethargy, inepitude and blundering of bureaucratic operations. We shall have to wait for such developments; but the situation is such that further emphasis is given to the need for a sweeping change of management at Washington and a clearing of the crowded bureaucratic decks there.

The Governors and the State Bonus Issue

AT THE RECENT CONFERENCE OF GOVERNORS at Oklahoma City the principal political threat was the question of a state bonus for World War II veterans. The action of the Illinois legislature authorizing such a bonus, to be financed by a $375,000,000 bond issue, did little to relieve the misgivings of governors who are acutely conscious of the demands they may have to face in the near future.

Although the conference did not go on record on this subject, an informal poll showed every governor at the conference strongly opposed to a state bonus. And in discussing whether the states or the federal government should assume the major financial responsibility for a program of service to veterans, Gov. Walter E. Edge, of New Jersey, made some elucidating observations.

"We can not be sure that all the states could handle a problem of this magnitude, even if they are free to do so, so that there would be no dissatisfaction among veterans," he said. "Of primary importance, we must recognize the great differences of fiscal capacity among the states. What one state may support quite readily, might impose an impossible financial strain on another. While this might seem to be self-evident, it can not be emphasized too strongly since the federal government, by pre-empting the principal sources of state revenues, has curtailed the fiscal capacity of even the wealthiest states. For this reason, we must recognize at the outset that the principal responsibility for financial support of veterans' programs must be borne by the federal government."

The same argument might well be advanced against a state bonus. One state might pay nothing, another a liberal sum—yet men of both served side by side. The veterans of this war fought, not in state armies, but in the army of the United States and the nalon already has assumed responsibility through the terms of the GI Bill of Rights. If there is to be a state bonus, where will it stop? Why not a county bous, a city bonus?

To the credit of most of the veterans' organizations, as well as a majority of individual veterans, there has been little pressure yet for a state bonus. What agitation there has been has come from those seeking to make political capital out of votes bought with the public purse and at the expense of the state's solvency and welfare.

Italians and The Ballot

A SIGNIFICANT LESSON was afforded American citizens by the elections just held in Italy. According to the press dispatches, Italians stood in line before the polling places for an average of five hours each in order that they might cast their ballots.

Just imagine American voters doing anything like that. Of course, they have had considerable practice on standing in line during the periods of war and postwar scarcities for things they needed, but the chances are that if they had to do that for the privilege of voting they just wouldn't for more than a half-hour stretch at the most.

As a matter of fact, entirely too many of them wouldn't take the trouble of going to the polls at all unless the contest happened to be a particularly heated one. Even then it requires the efforts of organized campaign workers to round up the voters and haul them to the polls in comfortable automobiles in order to achieve only sixty to seventy per cent of the total vote.

The Italians, it seems, have a far better appreciation of the precious value and the potent force of the ballot, as the news dispatches have indicated. The lesson for Americans is obvious. If representative government is slipping in this country, it is due to a great extent to the failure of responsible citizens to take the trouble to vote. Recent world experience suggests the patent need of putting chocks on those skids.

Graduates now bidding goodbye to logarithms and calculus ought to realize that they had a picnic compared to the employer operating with price ceilings and a closed shop.

MILKING TIME IN ITALY

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Sen. Barkley, Who Has Grown in Stature, Might Heal Supreme Court Conflicts

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, June 6.—A man stood in front of an apartment house on Connecticut avenue trying to hail a taxi. Scores of taxis sped down the avenue, all too busy or too full to stop.

The man stood, patient, dignified, apparently accustomed to this delay. His stately mien did not jibe with the job of standing on a street corner and signaling for a taxi, but he persisted.

Several swank limousines drove up to the apartment house to drop or pick up passengers, but the dignified gentleman on the curb patiently continued to wait for more plebian transportation.

He was Sen. Alben Barkley, of Kentucky, majority leader of the Senate. And his difficult efforts to hail a taxi are perhaps symbolic of other things in Barkley's current career.

The senator has no car of his own. McKellar, of Tennessee, the Senate's presiding officer, has taken over the vice-presidential car. Leslie Biffle, secretary of the senate, has two cars though he uses them not for himself but for senatorial errands. Every cabinet member and many sub-cabinet members have government cars and chauffeurs. But the majority leader of the Senate walks or tries to hail a taxi.

Unlike one or two of his colleagues, Barkley has not built up a lush law firm. He has no independent income. Unlike one or two of his colleagues, also, he has not used his inside knowledge to speculate on the commodities market.

Mrs. Barkley has been ill for many months, and sometimes the senator does not know from one day to the next whether she will pull through the week. He has been filling lecture engagements to pay the nurse and doctors bills.

Barkley Grows

Yet up on Capitol Hill, one would never guess from the way Barkley patiently pushes forward the president's program that tragic problems worry him at home. Never losing his sense of humor, he strives to pacify tempers, marshall the scattered tangents of the Democratic party and pull the administration's program out of impossible party.

Those who watched Barkley in the old days under Roosevelt agree that he has grown in stature. Abundant leadership came from the White House then—sometimes, the Senate felt, too much leadership. Barkley in those days was led, rather than the leader.

Today, with less leadership in the White House, the senator from Kentucky has stepped forward to pick up a large share of the burden of the dead chieftain with whom he sometimes so vigorously differed.

There was a day when Alben Barkley hoped he might be appointed to the supreme court. As far as he is concerned, that day is past. Barkley went down the line for the supreme court appointment of his friend, Jimmy Byrnes, some years ago, and since then has put aside all thought that the judicial lightning might strike in his direction. He is as philosophical about this as he is about waiting for a taxi.

However, it might well be that this is the time when a man with the pacifying experience of Barkley is needed to heal the wounds of the highest court.

Capital Chaff

Sen. Barkley once took this columnist to task for describing newly-appointed Court of Appeals Judge Wilbur K. Miller as a utilities corporation lawyer. Although Judge Miller did appear before the Federal Power Commission on behalf of a gas company immediately following his confirmation as a federal judge, events have proved that Sen. Barkley was right. Judge Miller has been an A-1 judge and no tool of the utilities....Duquesne university this week honored a man who came to this country as an 8-year-old Italian immigrant boy, now risen to be one of New York's leaders—Generoso Pope. One important chapter will be what happened between Roosevelt and Jim Farley in 1940 when they broke. Saltonstall, of Massachusetts: "The real intent behind the Case bill is to amend the Wagner act."....of memoirs. Sen. U.S.-Argentine Army Alliance

Inside details regarding the visit of Lt. Gen. Von Der Becke, the Argentine chief of staff, have now leaked out. The complete story shows that the United States Army is now barging into our Latin-American policy.

Real fact is that the Argentine general's visit was arranged by Gen. Eisenhower, despite the opposition of Assistant Secretary of State Spruille Braden, who bucked every inch of the way. Secretary Byrnes, however, finally gave the mission his O.K.

Eisenhower believes that the Latin American armies of the Western hemisphere should have the same type of equipment as the United States so they can co-operate in time of war with interchangeable weapons and ammunition. This was behind his idea of a conference with the Argentine chief of staff.

However, in order to avoid too much conflict with the State department, General Von Der Becke went to the unusual length of resigning as chief of staff, so he could come to the United States on a "private" mission allegedly to get medical treatment at Johns Hopkins. If he had come as chief of staff, it would have been necessary to give him an official reception, brass bands, red carpet, and a lot of trimmings which would have been resented by the American public.

Note—The State department is still smarting over the fast one put over by the War department and some diplomats are pointing to the infiltration of generals and admirals into United States diplomacy. Truman has appointed Gen. George Marshall ambassador to China; Gen. Beetle Smith ambassador to Russia; Gen. John Hilldring assistant secretary of state, and Adm. Alan Kirk ambassador to Belgium; Now, with the State department overruled on Latin American policy, diplomats are wondering whom they should talk to in the future—Secretary Byrnes or Gen. Eisenhower.

Industrial Stocks Are Appraised By R. W. Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., June 6—Once every six months (June and December) I prepare a brief summary of leading industries and here follows my outlook for the second half of 1946.

Automobile Stocks: The automobile industry should have a boom for a few years; but it is very vulnerable to labor troubles and to bombing. There may be no reason for now selling automobile stocks; but it looks as if the high prices have discounted the immediate outlook.

Aircraft Manufacturing Stocks: These stocks are selling largely on their liquidation value. From this point of view, some of them may be a good speculation; but the industry as a whole is uncertain.

A Growing Industry

Air Transport Stocks: This is a growing industry and will do a tremendous business for some years to come; but the rates are governed by federal authorities. Moreover, the airlines neither own their terminals nor the air through which they travel. Today—based on both book value and earnings—they are selling the highest of any group.

Agricultural Equipment Stocks: This is a fundamental industry and the better-grade stocks have both real security and a fair promise of continued dividends for conservative investors.

Amusement Stocks: The motion picture industry and similar groups enjoy great prosperity and dividends should continue liberal for another year or two.

Bank Stocks: In view of the tremendous deposits, a small increase in interest rates on the banks' investments and loans should help earnings. What the future interest rates are to be is anyone's guess.

Beverage Stocks: I know nothing about liquor stocks. The outlook for the soft drink stocks should be good after the sugar supply has become normal, but prices of the stocks may already anticipate this.

Big Building Boom

Building Stocks: Unless there is a buyer's strike, the building industry is headed for a remarkable boom. On the other hand, building stocks are high. I had rather buy well-located real estate.

Chemical Stocks: Although they now look high, with small yields, they are still attractive. The chemical industry will benefit from some wonderful discoveries now in the laboratory stage. Also the industry has a very small labor expense and its basic raw materials are relatively low priced.

Clothing Stocks: These appear to have a good future—especially manufacturers of men's clothing, shirts, shoes, etc. As to the textile group, the rayon manufacturers continue to be the most favored.

Container Stocks: These suffered no conversion troubles and will continue to do a good business; but the stocks appear fairly well priced in view of recent earnings.

Electrical Equipment Stocks: This industry as a whole should do a wonderful business, but it is beset by labor troubles and intense competition.

Foods Rearing To Go

Food Stocks: The food industries, such as baking, dairy products, corn refining, meat packing, are all rearing to go ahead and waiting only for a green light at Washington.

Machinery Stocks: Although there are exceptions, the machine tool industry will be beset for some time by a tremendous secondhand market. Its stock prices, however, are not over priced.

Merchandize Stocks: Sales and earnings will probably hit new peaks this year. I prefer, however, the chain stores, with their assets distributed broadly throughout the country, rather than the department stores with their assets concentrated in a few large cities subject to bombing.

Mining Stocks: There should be a continuous increase in the demand for non-ferrous metals in the months ahead. Mining stocks are also in the "bombing-proof" group.

Office Equipment Stocks: The office equipment companies have been suffering from the demands of re-conversion; but the better-grade stocks should continue to be attractive to conservative investors.

Petrillo Stresses Folly of Bad Law, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Whatever may be the merits of the labor controversies which James C. Petrillo, head of the Musicians union, is engaged in with broadcasting companies, he is certainly within his rights in refusing to obey a law of Congress aimed at his union alone.

This is but another way of saying, however, that he must be pretty sure the law will be declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States or else he will face the penalties of the law even though his purpose may be merely to test the validity of the law and not just to flout it.

Many persons who read about Mr. Petrillo's defiance of the statute immediately jumped to the conclusion that he was doing something improper or rebellious. Actually there is no way by which any law of the United States with criminal provisos in it affecting a citizen can be tested as to its constitutionality unless a citizen chooses to challenge that statute by violating it or refusing to abide by its provisions.

Memories are short but only a few years ago—between July 1935 and April 1937—many employers felt the same way about the Wagner Labor Relations act as Mr. Petrillo does about the recently passed statute whereby Congress endeavored to restrict some of Mr. Petrillo's activities in relation to broadcast music. Many employers in 1935 were confident that the Wagner law would not be upheld by the supreme court. Some able lawyers under the auspices of the Liberty League issued a symposium or brief stating in detail why they thought the law was unconstitutional. Unfortunately for them the supreme court later did uphold the law. Yet many employers in the period between the passage of the law and the rendering of the supreme court decision—about twenty-one months — felt they could ignore the law and enforcement did not become widespread until after the supreme court decided the first test case.

Mr. Petrillo no doubt has competent legal advice but it must be said in all candor that he has a better chance of seeing the recently passed law declared unconstitutional than had the Liberty League lawyers.

One reason is that the coercive practices which Congress prohibited in the statute aimed at Petrillo's union were specifically barred only as to one industry, namely broadcasting. The constitution requires that the laws of the United States must be enforced equally so that all citizens receive equal protection and so that also no group of citizens shall be discriminated against by Congress in the imposition of penalties or criminal provisions.

If Congress had barred all coercive practices and had made it unlawful for any union to compel an employer to hire more persons than he needed the situation would be different. Actually the law should have been applied to all employers and all unions but congress was timid about that because it knew the labor loby would prevent that kind of legislation from going through both houses and winning a presidential signature.

If, therefore, the supreme court does invalidate the Petrillo law as unconstitutional, the country will be faced with a continuance of the coercive practice complained of or else Congress will have to make such things unlawful as applied to all industries or businesses and all unions. Mr. Petrillo is probably taking no chances in disregarding the law and at the same time he will be inadvertently rendering a service exposing the negligence of duty by the Congress of the United States.

Bing Crosby

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

I have never met Bing Crosby, and may never meet him, but he has distributed himself to millions all over the earth. There is an echo of his soul in his singing voice and genuine sincerity in his acting in the movies. Records of his voice are prized by the hundreds of thousands. His friends like him. He is both popular and beloved by those, like myself, who have never come in contact with him.

I understand that Bing is an ideal father with his nest of boys and one woman. This additionally endears him to his admirers. He has earned large sums of money, but is generous with it. But what is the secret of all this fame and success of his? In my humble opinion, one word expresses it all—character!

Bing Crosby has character—and it is evident in his life and in his public career. His influence has been wholesome and inspiring. He has imitators, but no peers. He is a fine American. I would say that Bing Crosby is the singer and actor of the people, for his is a voice to them all. A voice that touches a beautiful chord in every human heart, when heard.

The rare talents of Bing Crosby have not been abused. They have been loaned out to millions as a personal gift. You feel better after listening to a song by him or witnessing his acting in a picture. There is a spiritual satisfaction to both. And you feel enriched in mind and heart afterwards.

There is personal satisfaction to both. And you feel enriched in mind and heart afterwards.

There is personal satisfaction in paying this brief tribute to so fine an artist as Bing Crosby. He has converted his fine gifts into an asset for all lovers of beauty in song and expression, and he has made this asset applicable to all the world. Few can openly express their appreciation, but it is housed within themslves, nevertheless.

Influence is intangible, but it is felt, wherever it radiates, as is the warmth of the rays of the sun, and it is just as universal. It is good to have such people as Bing Crosby in the world, and to have agencies to spread his voice into the furthermost corners of the earth. Such power as no competition with material gain.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

The parking problem on the West coast is getting very bad. In fact, the situation is so acute, that in some cities they've legalized double-parking. Of course, out here double-parking means one on top of the other.

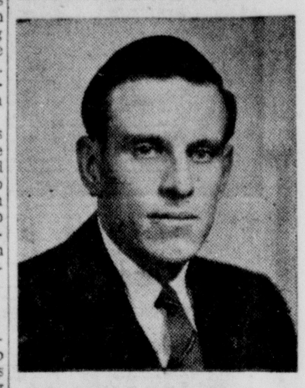

In San Francisco they're making plans to build an "Auto Sky Park" to ease the situation. This so-called "Auto Sky Park" would be built up on big pillars over the downtown business district and would cover a couple of blocks. Imagine driving your car way up in the air on top of buildings! You'll probably have to lock wheels with an airplane and wrestle for a place to park.

One of the prime requirements of the parking attendants will be that they know how to yodel. And they figure the customers will really be driving up those ramps in a hurry. . . . In fact, they're planning to have a station on top to check your car for oil, gas, and water. . . . And then checks the occupants of the car for the bends.

But an "Auto Sky Park" is just what San Franciscans need, as they've always had a tough time parking their cars. With those hills up there you have to turn off the motor, put on the brakes, and throw out an anchr. Then, when the fog rolls in, you have to hire a deep-sea driver to find your car.

Government Tampering Causes Food Failures

WHILE there is some reassurance in the report given out by the Millers National Federation that the new winter wheat crop in Texas and Oklahoma is running twenty-five per cent ahead of pre-harvest expectations, apprehensions obtain over the reports of the closing down of practically all the flour mills of the nation, the action of the federal Agriculture department in drafting a plan to dip into foreign relief wheat stocks and the reports that many shops in New York city and elsewhere are out of bread supplies.

As the Washington authorities have failed to furnish satisfactory information as to the causes of the wheat and bread situation, people are naturally anxious to learn how it has come to a point where for the first time in its history this nation is short of its staff of life with prospects that increasing numbers will have to go without it. It is pertinent, accordingly, to look to a representative of industry for some information as to the cause or causes.

Paul S. Willis, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, has given this in an address at a convention just held in Chicago. He said the government at Washington must bear full responsibility for the present shortages of grain in processing plants, for the growing dislocation of food operations and supplies, and for the confusion which now surrounds the entire food picture. For this reason, the people should be informed of the facts, he declared.

The present closing of food plants and flour mills because of a lack of supplies "is certainly not the fault of industry," Mr. Willis said, declaring that the food industry "has been helplessly under government regulations since early 1942."

"The government has been, and currently is, the self-appointed manager of the nation's food basket, and the government cannot escape responsibility for the current situation," Willis declared. "Government manipulation, tampering with sound business economics and its failure to plan ahead intelligently have all contributed to this situation."

The food industry fully recognizes the need for helping feed the hungry nations of the world and has done more than its part, not only in supplying food but in using all of the means at its command to co-operate with the faminie emergency program, Willis said. Yet, he continued, "government has jockeyed business into a public relations position where any protest by business about the government manipulation and mismanagement of the food situation is immediately interpreted as an attack on the famine relief program."

Asserting that "it is high time we extracted a bit of common sense out of this nonsense," Willis declared that the first thing the government must do is to take both the public and industry into its confidence about the entire food situation, and to deal with the public and industry openly and frankly. There was some excuse for secrecy during the war, but now that the war is over, he said, "it is an unwarranted use of administrative power to keep the essential facts away from the American people and from the food industry.

"Without the essential facts," Willis continued, "it is impossible for the industry accurately to appraise the situation or to do an intelligent job of short or long range planning. They do not know from day to day what raw materials are available or if they can keep their plants operating. The American people do not know what other nations are contributing.

"Some serious accusations have been made, which have not yet been denied. For example, according to the newspapers, there are a million tons of rice being held off the market in Siam. There is a shorter supply and a greater demand for rice than for any other grain. What happens to this million tons of rice in Siam means life or death to thousands in the Philippines, India and the Dutch East Indies.

"The United States wants to buy it. London is said to be insisting that Siam is within the British sphere of economc control. So it is not being used to relieve famine because of Britain's desire to protect her long-range economic position in the Orient. This and similar incidents indicate that the American people should know all of the facts."

Thus, as Willis indicates, bureaucratic inferference and fumbling with the natural economic processes have brought about the present deplorable situation and he hits the nail on the head in saying that it is high time to extract a bit of common sense out "all this nonsense." That may be possible as a result of public protest, although not probable at least until some extraneous conditions develop, because of the lethargy, inepitude and blundering of bureaucratic operations. We shall have to wait for such developments; but the situation is such that further emphasis is given to the need for a sweeping change of management at Washington and a clearing of the crowded bureaucratic decks there.

The Governors and the State Bonus Issue

AT THE RECENT CONFERENCE OF GOVERNORS at Oklahoma City, the principal political threat was the question of a state bonus for World War II veterans. The action of the Illinois legislature authorizing such a bonus, to be financed by a $375,000,000 bond issue, did little to relieve the misgivings of governors who are acutely conscious of the demands they may have to face in the near future.

Although the conference did not go on record on this subject, an informal poll showed every governor at the conference strongly opposed to a state bonus. And in discussing whether the states or the federal government should assume the major financial responsibility for a program of service to veterans, Gov. Walter E. Edge, of New Jersey, made some elucidating observations.

"We can not be sure that all the states could handle a problem of this magnitude, even if they are free to do so, so that there would be no dissatisfaction among veterans," he said. "Of primary importance, we must recognize the great differences of fiscal capacity among the states. What one state may support quite readily, might impose an impossible financial strain on another. While this might seem to be self-evident, it can not be emphasized too strongly since the federal government, by pre-empting the principal sources of state revenues, has curtailed the fiscal capacity of even the wealthiest states. For this reason, we must recognize at the outset that the principal responsibility for financial support of veterans' programs must be borne by the federal government."

The same argument might well be advanced against a state bonus. One state might pay nothing, another a liberal sum—yet men of both served side by side. The veterans of this war fought, not in state armies, but in the army of the United States and the nation already has assumed responsibility through the terms of the GI Bill of Rights. If there is to be a state bonus, where will it stop? Why not a county bous, a city bonus?

To the credit of most of the veterans' organizations, as well as a majority of individual veterans, there has been little pressure yet for a state bonus. What agitation there has been has come from those seeking to make political capital out of votes bought with the public purse and at the expense of the state's solvency and welfare.

Italians and The Ballot

A SIGNIFICANT LESSON was afforded American citizens by the elections just held in Italy. According to the press dispatches, Italians stood in line before the polling places for an average of five hours each in order that they might cast their ballots.

Just imagine American voters doing anything like that. Of course, they have had considerable practice on standing in line during the periods of war and postwar scarcities for things they needed, but the chances are that if they had to do that for the privilege of voting they just wouldn't for more than a half-hour stretch at the most.

As a matter of fact, entirely too many of them wouldn't take the trouble of going to the polls at all unless the contest happened to be a particularly heated one. Even then it requires the efforts of organized campaign workers to round up the voters and haul them to the polls in comfortable automobiles in order to achieve only sixty to seventy per cent of the total vote.

The Italians, it seems, have a far better appreciation of the precious value and the potent force of the ballot, as the news dispatches have indicated. The lesson for Americans is obvious. If representative government is slipping in this country, it is due to a great extent to the failure of responsible citizens to take the trouble to vote. Recent world experience suggests the patent need of putting chocks on those skids.

Graduates now bidding goodbye to logarithms and calculus ought to realize that they had a picnic compared to the employer operating with price ceilings and a closed shop.

MILKING TIME IN ITALY

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Sen. Barkley, Who Has Grown in Stature, Might Heal Supreme Court Conflicts

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, June 6.—A man stood in front of an apartment house on Connecticut avenue trying to hail a taxi. Scores of taxis sped down the avenue, all too busy or too full to stop.

The man stood, patient, dignified, apparently accustomed to this delay. His stately mien did not jibe with the job of standing on a street corner and signaling for a taxi, but he persisted.

Several swank limousines drove up to the apartment house to drop or pick up passengers, but the dignified gentleman on the curb patiently continued to wait for more plebian transportation.

He was Sen. Alben Barkley, of Kentucky, majority leader of the Senate. And his difficult efforts to hail a taxi are perhaps symbolic of other things in Barkley's current career.

The senator has no car of his own. McKellar, of Tennessee, the Senate's presiding officer, has taken over the vice-presidential car. Leslie Biffle, secretary of the senate, has two cars though he uses them not for himself but for senatorial errands. Every cabinet member and many sub-cabinet members have government cars and chauffeurs. But the majority leader of the Senate walks or tries to hail a taxi.

Unlike one or two of his colleagues, Barkley has not built up a lush law firm. He has no independent income. Unlike one or two of his colleagues, also, he has not used his inside knowledge to speculate on the commodities market.

Mrs. Barkley has been ill for many months, and sometimes the senator does not know from one day to the next whether she will pull through the week. He has been filling lecture engagements to pay the nurse and doctors bills.

Barkley Grows

Yet up on Capitol Hill, one would never guess from the way Barkley patiently pushes forward the president's program that tragic problems worry him at home. Never losing his sense of humor, he strives to pacify tempers, marshall the scattered tangents of the Democratic party and pull the administration's program out of impossible party.

Those who watched Barkley in the old days under Roosevelt agree that he has grown in stature. Abundant leadership came from the White House then—sometimes, the Senate felt, too much leadership. Barkley in those days was led, rather than the leader.

Today, with less leadership in the White House, the senator from Kentucky has stepped forward to pick up a large share of the burden of the dead chieftain with whom he sometimes so vigorously differed.

There was a day when Alben Barkley hoped he might be appointed to the supreme court. As far as he is concerned, that day is past. Barkley went down the line for the supreme court appointment of his friend, Jimmy Byrnes, some years ago, and since then has put aside all thought that the judicial lightning might strike in his direction. He is as philosophical about this as he is about waiting for a taxi.

However, it might well be that this is the time when a man with the pacifying experience of Barkley is needed to heal the wounds of the highest court.

Capital Chaff

Sen. Barkley once took this columnist to task for describing newly-appointed Court of Appeals Judge Wilbur K. Miller as a utilities corporation lawyer. Although Judge Miller did appear before the Federal Power Commission on behalf of a gas company immediately following his confirmation as a federal judge, events have proved that Sen. Barkley was right. Judge Miller has been an A-1 judge and no tool of the utilities....Duquesne university this week honored a man who came to this country as an 8-year-old Italian immigrant boy, now risen to be one of New York's leaders—Generoso Pope. More universities could well honor newcomers to this country who have helped make democracy live....Playwright Robert Sherwood, one of F.D.R.'s old ghost writers, is busy on Harry Hopkins' unfinished memoirs. One important chapter will be what happened between Roosevelt and Jim Farley in 1940 when they broke. Jim's version is that F.D.R. told him he wasn't going to run for a third term, that Cordell Hull and Farley could be the presidential and vice - presidential candidates .... Says Sen. Saltonstall, of Massachusetts: "The real intent behind the Case bill is to amend the Wagner act."....of memoirs. Sen. Vandenberg, an ex-newsman, has been keeping a daily diary which, if ever published, will really make 'em sizzle....John Snyder has adopted a motto for his war reconversion office: "If it ain't bad, it don't belong here."

Unfortunately for them the supreme court later did uphold the law. Yet many employers in the period between the passage of the law and the rendering of the supreme court decision—about twenty-one months — felt they could ignore the law and enforcement did not become widespread until after the supreme court decided the first test case.

Mr. Petrillo no doubt has competent legal advice but it must be said in all candor that he has a better chance of seeing the recently passed law declared unconstitutional than had the Liberty League lawyers.

One reason is that the coercive practices which Congress prohibited in the statute aimed at Petrillo's union were specifically barred only as to one industry, namely broadcasting. The constitution requires that the laws of the United States must be enforced equally so that all citizens receive equal protection and so that also no group of citizens shall be discriminated against by Congress in the imposition of penalties or criminal provisions.

If Congress had barred all coercive practices and had made it unlawful for any union to compel an employer to hire more persons than he needed the situation would be different. Actually the law should have been applied to all employers and all unions but congress was timid about that because it knew the labor loby would prevent that kind of legislation from going through both houses and winning a presidential signature.

If, therefore, the supreme court does invalidate the Petrillo law as unconstitutional, the country will be faced with a continuance of the coercive practice complained of or else Congress will have to make such things unlawful as applied to all industries or businesses and all unions. Mr. Petrillo is probably taking no chances in disregarding the law and at the same time he will be inadvertently rendering a service exposing the negligence of duty by the Congress of the United States.

Bing Crosby

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

I have never met Bing Crosby, and may never meet him, but he has distributed himself to millions all over the earth. There is an echo of his soul in his singing voice and genuine sincerity in his acting in the movies. Records of his voice are prized by the hundreds of thousands. His friends like him. He is both popular and beloved by those, like myself, who have never come in contact with him.

I understand that Bing is an ideal father with his nest of boys and one woman. This additionally endears him to his admirers. He has earned large sums of money, but is generous with it. But what is the secret of all this fame and success of his? In my humble opinion, one word expresses it all—character!

Bing Crosby has character—and it is evident in his life and in his public career. His influence has been wholesome and inspiring. He has imitators, but no peers. He is a fine American. I would say that Bing Crosby is the singer and actor of the people, for his is a voice to them all. A voice that touches a beautiful chord in every human heart, when heard.

The rare talents of Bing Crosby have not been abused. They have been loaned out to millions as a personal gift. You feel better after listening to a song by him or witnessing his acting in a picture. There is a spiritual satisfaction to both. And you feel enriched in mind and heart afterwards.

There is personal satisfaction to both. And you feel enriched in mind and heart afterwards.

There is personal satisfaction in paying this brief tribute to so fine an artist as Bing Crosby. He has converted his fine gifts into an asset for all lovers of beauty in song and expression, and he has made this asset applicable to all the world. Few can openly express their appreciation, but it is housed within themslves, nevertheless.

Influence is intangible, but it is felt, wherever it radiates, as is the warmth of the rays of the sun, and it is just as universal. It is good to have such people as Bing Crosby in the world, and to have agencies to spread his voice into the furthermost corners of the earth. Such power as no competition with material gain.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

The parking problem on the West coast is getting very bad. In fact, the situation is so acute, that in some cities they've legalized double-parking. Of course, out here double-parking means one on top of the other.

In San Francisco they're making plans to build an "Auto Sky Park" to ease the situation. This so-called "Auto Sky Park" would be built up on big pillars over the downtown business district and would cover a couple of blocks. Imagine driving your car way up in the air on top of buildings! You'll probably have to lock wheels with an airplane and wrestle for a place to park.

One of the prime requirements of the parking attendants will be that they know how to yodel. And they figure the customers will really be driving up those ramps in a hurry. . . . In fact, they're planning to have a station on top to check your car for oil, gas, and water. . . . And then checks the occupants of the car for the bends.

But an "Auto Sky Park" is just what San Franciscans need, as they've always had a tough time parking their cars. With those hills up there you have to turn off the motor, put on the brakes, and throw out an anchr. Then, when the fog rolls in, you have to hire a deep-sea driver to find your car.

Man Pleads Guilty To Assault Charge; Gets Ninety Days

James Cranford, Accused of Beating Soldier, Appeals Sentence

James I. Cranford, 514 Maryland avenue, was committed to the county jail for ninety days by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew in trial magistrates court Wednesday after he pleaded guilty to a charge of beating a soldier late Sunday night.

Although he pleaded guilty, Cranford filed an appeal after the hearing and was released under $500 bond for action of the September grand jury.

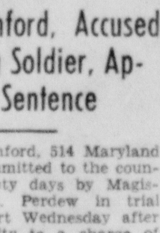

Authorities said the assault occurred in the alley between Union and Harrison streets, alongside the building occupied by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion.

Court attaches said Cranford approached the soldier, Cecil Barnhart, Jr., Connellsville, Pa., as he was sitting in an automobile with his family. Witnesses said Cranford approached Barnhart in an aggressive manner but that the latter remained in the car and stated he was not permitted to fight while in uniform. They added that Cranford tore off Barnhart's glasses before friends were able to get him to leave.

Cranford returned to the car, however, and attacked the soldier, who remained seated and offered no resistance, testimony showed.

Cranford admitted he had been drinking at the time of the assault, court attaches said.

OLD JUDGE: "The same thing used to be true about alcoholics. Most of the time those poor fellows were thrown in jail... shunned by society. GET OVER THE DON'TLIKEITS!

Ever think what a lot you pass up by NOT LIKING things?

Most of us begin NOT LIKING when we're about six seconds old, and, from that squawk on, life's just one don't like after another. Long before we reach maturity we're full of prejudices on every conceivable subject.

We don't like people with long noses . . . or short ones . . . we don't like boiled salmon . . . or fried liver . . . we don't like red hats . . . or wicker rocking chairs . . . or brown shoes . . . or railroad berths . . . or week-end parties . . . or lavender perfume . . . or men who wear derbies . . . or step-back buildings . . . or continued stories . . . or spotted dogs . . . or snow-shoeing . . . or women with double chins . . . or things that come from Egypt . . . or pink wall-paper . . . or any one of a million other objects and experiences.

We not only don't like these things in theory, but they make us actually miserable when we meet up with them in practice. And so we spend hours of time and great gobs of energy in trying to avoid the more fidgeting over them.

Now, of course, some of these dislikes are based on good sense but the vast majority of them have no such justification and are founded on nothing but cowardice, cussedness and conceit.

Once we knew an old meanie who wore a derby. Every time we see a derby we think of that old meanie. Of course, if we used a little gumption, we might stop associating derbies with old meanies. We might break up that old memory chain and rid our minds of a nuisance. But it's so much trouble to make one's self over. Much easier to just drift along, leaving things as they are. So we drift . . . hating all derbies, being riled by all derbies, because once an old meanie wore one.

And not only do we accumulate dislikes, but we MAKE A VIRTUE OF ACCUMULATING THEM. We consider it a sign of superior taste and shrewdness to dislike a lot of things. We rather look down on the easy-going, good-natured saps who like everything. We boast of our dislikes as if they were priceless possessions.

THEY AREN'T PRICELESS POSSESSIONS. THEY'RE A PAIN IN THE NECK . . . A PLASTER ON PROGRESS.

Every dislike you foster limits your opportunities, shackles your freedom . . . and inflicts punishment on you. NO ONE CAN POSSIBLY HAMPER OR HARASS YOU AS MUCH AS YOU HAMPER AND HARASS YOURSELF BY YOUR OWN DISLIKES.

You've no more right to cultivate the average dislike than you have to cultivate a stutter, a squint or a limp. A dislike will do far worse things to your mind than such habits will do to your body. If you've got to be a cripple, be a physical one. Don't deliberately inflict on yourself a crippled mind.

Few Simple Rules Help Person Grow Old Gracefully

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Short of dying young, there is no way to keep from growing old sooner or later, but attention to a few simple rules can help in growing old gracefully. In other words, old age need not be a burden. It can be a joy if one accepts it in the right spirit.

It's largely a matter of attitude. Some people are older at 50 than others at 90 because they "think old." Disgruntled at the changes which must come with the years, they no longer live effectively. The man (or woman) who can adjust his life to his physical and mental abilities can be happy no matter what his age.

Be Your Age

Dr. William W. Bauer, Chicago, says that the popular way of putting this idea is "be your age." For example, a baseball player who can play effectively after 35 is the exception. On the other hand, the locomotive engineer, the captain of a ship, or the scientist may gain effectiveness with the passage of the years.

In the later years of life, nutrition is of great importance. Some people have the mistaken idea that the proper diet for an elderly person is crackers and milk or tea and toast. Perhaps this idea has been accentuated by the instances in which older persons have overeaten and as a result have developed various digestive disturbances.

The older person needs a diet which furnishes all the various types of foods. Perhaps lessened appetite and less physical work call for a reduction in such foods as sugars, starches, such as bread and cereals, and fats, but protein foods such as meat, milk and eggs, as well as all of the vitamins and minerals, must be supplies in adequate amounts.

Arteries May Harden

As persons grow older, the arteries may harden, which means that calcium or lime salts are deposited in their walls. Now it is known that milk is a good source of calcium. Hence, sometimes older people begin to think that milk is not necessary for them and even inadvisable, but studies have shown that the calcium requirements of older persons are not less than those of any adult.

In fact, in old age there may be a loss of calcium from the bones so that an increased calcium intake is necessary.

If the elderly would get the most out of life they should fit what they do to meet their abilities; they should live within their limitations. They must go slow on strenuous physical effort but there need be no rationing of some of the best things of life, humor, which experience and long-looking at the pageant of life engenders, wisdom, and kindliness.

Armoured in a happy philosophy, protected as to health by regular medical supervision, surrounded by children and friends, oldsters can find in the declining years as much enjoyment as at any other period and sometimes even more.

People Who Marry "Mother's Babies" Get Bad Bargains

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Sometimes a girl marries a man who is still tied to his mother's apron strings. Sometimes it's the man who gets a "mother's baby" for a wife. Either way, it's a bad bargain, paid for in both headaches and heartaches, as these two letter-writers—one a husband and the other a wife—have learned to their sorrow.

Referring to a letter published in this column recently in which a girl signing herself "D.K." confided her uncertainties over the fact that the boy she was thinking of marrying was a "mother's baby," the wife just mentioned says:

"I have been married to this sort of man for years. We live next door to my in-laws. My husband drank before I married him, but like every other girl in love, I thought he would stop when we were married. But instead, every time the least little thing happens, he runs to his people and then goes off and gets drunk. His mother even comes up to settle a spat in his favor when he's drinking, and my husband is a big-shot when his mother tells me off."

With children to care for, and a house without modern conveniences except for electric light, this woman has become so worn down from work and worry that she has been in broken health for two years.

Jealous of Children

"But," she goes on to say, "when the doctor tells my husband we should move away from my in-laws and into a house with more conveniences, he thinks the doctor is in love with me and says awful things. I have to wait on him like a baby, and he's even jealous of anything I do for the children, and he's worse than the children in dirtying the house up.

"I haven't any place to go with my children, so I don't know if I should leave my husband or stay and hope he'll change. But I do know that if this girl D. K. ever marries her boy friend, she'll soon wish she'd never known him."

And how about the husband who married the "mother's baby"? He writes, in part:

"My wife and I have been married for the past twenty-three years, and have two daughters, 21 and 18, both working away from home.

"For the past twelve years, my wife, now 45, has not been satisfied unless she spends most of her time with her mother in her home. It takes coaxing for months to get her away for thirty days or less.

Husband's Problem Is Simpler

"All my married life I have been sincere and true with my wife. Now I am beginning to get disgusted with the setup. Should I divorce her and marry some one I can be with and be a husband to, and who will be a wife to me, or continue this tiresome and lonely life? My worries have begun to affect my nerves as well as my business."

Well, what can these tragically troubled people do?

The husband's problems is a little simple, because he can take care of himself in case of a separation between himself and his wife. He, it seems to me, might well tell his wife she will have to decide once and for all who is to come first in her life and whose home she wishes to live in—her own or her mother's—and then guide his subsequent action according to whatever choice she makes.

But the woman who is dependent upon a husband—even a drunken one—for support, can hardly force the issue so bluntly unless she is prepared to take over the support of herself and her children. Personally, I would think that almost any woman would rather scrub floors for a living and be independent of the kind of husband described in the first letter, than continue the miserable existence of which she writes. But not every woman feels that way, and it is not always an easy matter for a completely unskilled worker to find employment.

So unless this woman, or someone else, can manage to persuade her husband to put considerable distance between his mother and his home, or she can find a way of earning a living, I'm afraid all she can do is to put up with the situation as best she can.

Cooking for Father's Day

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

Father's day this year is dedicated to the cause of the American veteran, so we thought it appropriate to visit New York's new Headquarters restaurant, which is run and staffed entirely by veterans, most of whom are also fathers.

We asked Marty Snyder, General Eisenhower's ex-chef at SHAEF, who is one of the owners of Headquarters, to have favorite Father's day meals picked for us by a northern and a southern veteran. Marty comes from Baltimore and he picked the southern dinner himself. Here it is:

SOUTHERN VETERAN'S DINNER
Shrimp Cocktail
Maryland Fried Chicken with Cream Gravy
Corn Fritters
Candied Yams
Salad
Hot Biscuits
Watermelon

And here are some recipes for the way Headquarters produces that meal.

Maryland Fried Chicken

4-pound fryer
Seasoned flour
1 egg
2 tablespoons water
Bread crumbs
Fat

Have fryer cut into frying-sized pieces. Wash and dry thoroughly. Dip into flour, seasoned with salt and pepper. Make a batter of the egg and water. Dip floured chicken pieces into this, then into bread-crumbs. Melt fat in frying pan and brown chicken pieces in this over hot fire, but do not let burn. Reduce heat, cover the pan, and simmer gently over a low fire until done—about half an hour.

At Headquarters, cream gravy is made in the pan in which the chicken was fried, using cream to take up all the bits of "fry," and thickening with a roux of butter and flour.

For the fritters, the chef uses whole kernel corn.

The yams are parboiled, then fried in deep fat (you could use shallow in your home), and then set in hot "simple syrup," slightly flavored with, maple for candying.

Ex-Major John Lennox, former mess officer of SHAEF, of Boston, Mass., chose the northern dinner. Here it is:

NORTHERN VETERAN'S DINNER
Boston Clam Chowder
New England Boiled Dinner
Salad
Rolls
Pineapple Upside-Down Cake

Here's how Headquarters restaurant prepares a New England Boiled Dinner. Every ingredient is cooked separately. The ingredients are: boiled potatoes, corned beef, boiled carrots, boiled cabbage, boiled onions, and boiled turnips. If you do them that way at home, you will be lucky if you have a steamer in which you can prepare two or three of the ingredients at once. Otherwise, you'll surely use every pan and burner you have! Headquarters buys only brisket of beef for this dinner and the fat is trimmed off after cooking. Otherwise you lose a lot of flavor. Boil the meat two hours, change the water and then boil an hour and a half longer. Serve mustard with the boiled dinner. In England, oil and vinegar for the cabbage are served too. "But never cook vinegar with the cabbage," says Marty Snyder. It may give good flavor, but it makes the cabbage look awful—all tired out!

Cooking for Father's Day

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

Father's day this year is dedicated to the cause of the American veteran, so we thought it appropriate to visit New York's new Headquarters restaurant, which is run and staffed entirely by veterans, most of whom are also fathers.

We asked Marty Snyder, General Eisenhower's ex-chef at SHAEF, who is one of the owners of Headquarters, to have favorite Father's day meals picked for us by a northern and a southern veteran. Marty comes from Baltimore and he picked the southern dinner himself. Here it is:

SOUTHERN VETERAN'S DINNER
Shrimp Cocktail
Maryland Fried Chicken with Cream Gravy
Corn Fritters
Candied Yams
Salad
Hot Biscuits
Watermelon

And here are some recipes for the way Headquarters produces that meal.

Maryland Fried Chicken

4-pound fryer
Seasoned flour
1 egg
2 tablespoons water
Bread crumbs
Fat

Have fryer cut into frying-sized pieces. Wash and dry thoroughly. Dip into flour, seasoned with salt and pepper. Make a batter of the egg and water. Dip floured chicken pieces into this, then into bread-crumbs. Melt fat in frying pan and brown chicken pieces in this over hot fire, but do not let burn. Reduce heat, cover the pan, and simmer gently over a low fire until done—about half an hour.

At Headquarters, cream gravy is made in the pan in which the chicken was fried, using cream to take up all the bits of "fry," and thickening with a roux of butter and flour.

For the fritters, the chef uses whole kernel corn.

The yams are parboiled, then fried in deep fat (you could use shallow in your home), and then set in hot "simple syrup," slightly flavored with, maple for candying.

Ex-Major John Lennox, former mess officer of SHAEF, of Boston, Mass., chose the northern dinner. Here it is:

NORTHERN VETERAN'S DINNER
Boston Clam Chowder
New England Boiled Dinner
Salad
Rolls
Pineapple Upside-Down Cake

Buying of Selected Rails, Utilities And Industrials Steadies Market

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—Buying of selected rails, industrials and utilities steadied the stock market today although many leaders were neglected in lower territory.

Dealings were slack from the start. Forenoon losses of fractions to two or more pints were reduced or converted into plus signs. Closing trends were no worse than moderately irregular. Transfers of 980,000 shares compared with 1,170,000 Wednesday and were the smallest since May 20.

New York and Harlem was off twenty-seven points at $298 on a twenty-share sale. American Woolen preferred lost four and one-half at $178 on profit cashing but the common was up three-eighths at $68.50. Sweets Company added seven and seven-eighths points at $67.87. American Power and Light tacked on one and one-eighth at $22.37 and Wyandotte Worsted was up five-eighths at $24.87.

Ahead were New York Central, Southern Railway, Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Southern Pacific, among the rails. Chicago and Northwestern preferred dropped four at $66.25. The common yielded one and three-fourth at $36.50.

Improved were Bethlehem, Boeing, American Water Works, American telephone, American Can, du Pont, Western Electrical Instrument and Union carbide. Casualties included Chrysler, United States Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, Douglas Aircraft, Western Union "A", North American, Anaconda, Chesapeke and Ohio and Pennsylvania.

In the Curb, Nachman Corporation moved up on a raised disbursement. In front were Cities Service, Diana Stores, National Pressure Cooker, Sterling Aluminum Products and Udylite Corporation. Turnover here was 410,000 shares versus 510,000 yesterday.

Bonds moved within a narrow range with a wide assortment of utilities and industrials registering improvement.

Sales totaled $3,980,000 compared with $3,510,000 Wednesday.

Treasury issues were quiet. On the stock exchange the 2½s of '70-'65 climbed one-fourth to 104⅞, bringing it in line with outside markets where narrow changes were recorded.

Buying of Selected Rails, Utilities And Industrials Steadies Market

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—Buying of selected rails, industrials and utilities steadied the stock market today although many leaders were neglected in lower territory.

Dealings were slack from the start. Forenoon losses of fractions to two or more pints were reduced or converted into plus signs. Closing trends were no worse than moderately irregular. Transfers of 980,000 shares compared with 1,170,000 Wednesday and were the smallest since May 20.

New York and Harlem was off twenty-seven points at $298 on a twenty-share sale. American Woolen preferred lost four and one-half at $178 on profit cashing but the common was up three-eighths at $68.50. Sweets Company added seven and seven-eighths points at $67.87. American Power and Light tacked on one and one-eighth at $22.37 and Wyandotte Worsted was up five-eighths at $24.87.

Ahead were New York Central, Southern Railway, Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Southern Pacific, among the rails. Chicago and Northwestern preferred dropped four at $66.25. The common yielded one and three-fourth at $36.50.

Improved were Bethlehem, Boeing, American Water Works, American telephone, American Can, du Pont, Western Electrical Instrument and Union carbide. Casualties included Chrysler, United States Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, Douglas Aircraft, Western Union "A", North American, Anaconda, Chesapeke and Ohio and Pennsylvania.

In the Curb, Nachman Corporation moved up on a raised disbursement. In front were Cities Service, Diana Stores, National Pressure Cooker, Sterling Aluminum Products and Udylite Corporation. Turnover here was 410,000 shares versus 510,000 yesterday.

Bonds moved within a narrow range with a wide assortment of utilities and industrials registering improvement.

Sales totaled $3,980,000 compared with $3,510,000 Wednesday.

Treasury issues were quiet. On the stock exchange the 2½s of '70-'65 climbed one-fourth to 104⅞, bringing it in line with outside markets where narrow changes were recorded.

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Four More Men Sign Up for Duty In Marine Platoon

Swearing In Ceremony Will Take Place at Strand Theater Tuesday

Four more Cumberland area men have signed up for the Cumberland platoon of the marine corps that will be sworn in at a ceremony on the stage of the Strand theatre Tuesday at 8 p. m., according to Staff Sgt. Murrell W. Brainerd, local recruiter.

Enlistment of the four additional men, Herbert C. Silvious and James Paul Scott, Cumberland, Robert A. Bollenger, Frostburg, and Lewis R. Leonardi, Bedford, Pa., brings to fifty-six the number of men already signed up for the platoon, which is expected to reach sixty men by the time of the swearing in ceremony.

Several ranking marine corps officers will be here for the ceremony which will be marked by music by the Allegany high school band and choir.

The public relations office of the marine corps will send a photographer here to take pictures of the processing of the platoon and swearing in ceremony. Parents of each recruit will be given two pictures of their son.

Members of the platoon are requested to report at the recruiting station at 12:30 p. m. Monday if they reside in Cumberland, and Tuesday at 8:30 a. m. if they reside out of town, for their final physical examinations. Men previously rejected for the platoon are asked to report for examination inasmuch as they may have a chance of being accepted under new regulations.

The men will stay at the state armory overnight Tuesday and board a special B. and O. coach for the trip to Washington at 1:12 p. m. June 12. In Washington they will entrain for Parris Island, S. C., for boot training as a unit. After sixteen weeks' training the group will receive a ten-day furlough.

Playgrounds Will Be Opened June 17

The park board has set Monday, June 17, as the opening day for Cumberland's seven playgrounds, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

A decision has not yet been made by the board on personnel or whether a woman director will be placed in charge, as was the case two years ago. In general, the mayor said, personnel will be the same as last year.

The playgrounds will be open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. with the exception of Saturdays and Sundays. Leaders will work on shifts, the first being from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. and the second from 3 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Playgrounds to be opened include North End, East Side, Gephart, West Side, Mt Royal, South End, and Pine Avenue. The sites will remain in official use until August 30, the mayor reported.

Equipment will be installed a few days before the grounds are opened.

The program, according to Mayor Post, will be about the same as in previous years. He said no decision has been reached on how funds contributed by various individuals and organizations will be used. Over $600 has been contributed so far. The fund was placed in charge of Commissioner William V. Keegan by the mayor and council, and the commissioner will be consulted by the board, the mayor said.

The mayor said it has been decided not to have the grounds open on Saturdays as attendance has not been good on this day in the past.

Swearing In Ceremony Will Take Place at Strand Theater Tuesday

Four more Cumberland area men have signed up for the Cumberland platoon of the marine corps that will be sworn in at a ceremony on the stage of the Strand theatre Tuesday at 8 p. m., according to Staff Sgt. Murrell W. Brainerd, local recruiter.

Enlistment of the four additional men, Herbert C. Silvious and James Paul Scott, Cumberland, Robert A. Bollenger, Frostburg, and Lewis R. Leonardi, Bedford, Pa., brings to fifty-six the number of men already signed up for the platoon, which is expected to reach sixty men by the time of the swearing in ceremony.

Several ranking marine corps officers will be here for the ceremony which will be marked by music by the Allegany high school band and choir.

The public relations office of the marine corps will send a photographer here to take pictures of the processing of the platoon and swearing in ceremony. Parents of each recruit will be given two pictures of their son.

Members of the platoon are requested to report at the recruiting station at 12:30 p. m. Monday if they reside in Cumberland, and Tuesday at 8:30 a. m. if they reside out of town, for their final physical examinations. Men previously rejected for the platoon are asked to report for examination inasmuch as they may have a chance of being accepted under new regulations.

The men will stay at the state armory overnight Tuesday and board a special B. and O. coach for the trip to Washington at 1:12 p. m. June 12. In Washington they will entrain for Parris Island, S. C., for boot training as a unit. After sixteen weeks' training the group will receive a ten-day furlough.

Playgrounds Will Be Opened June 17

The park board has set Monday, June 17, as the opening day for Cumberland's seven playgrounds, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

A decision has not yet been made by the board on personnel or whether a woman director will be placed in charge, as was the case two years ago. In general, the mayor said, personnel will be the same as last year.

The playgrounds will be open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. with the exception of Saturdays and Sundays. Leaders will work on shifts, the first being from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. and the second from 3 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Playgrounds to be opened include North End, East Side, Gephart, West Side, Mt Royal, South End, and Pine Avenue. The sites will remain in official use until August 30, the mayor reported.

Equipment will be installed a few days before the grounds are opened.

The program, according to Mayor Post, will be about the same as in previous years. He said no decision has been reached on how funds contributed by various individuals and organizations will be used. Over $600 has been contributed so far. The fund was placed in charge of Commissioner William V. Keegan by the mayor and council, and the commissioner will be consulted by the board, the mayor said.

The mayor said it has been decided not to have the grounds open on Saturdays as attendance has not been good on this day in the past.

Jeffries down in bout with Johnson

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

A right to the body and a left to the chin and Jim Jeffries, never before brought to his knees, went sprawling over the ropes in the ring at Reno, Nev., a big black hulk of a man towering over him.

Jeffries, then out of the ring for six years, got up with the help of his seconds and came back into the ring. While cries of "Stop it, Tex!" filled the air, Jeff's opponent, Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion, nailed him a second time and down Jeff went again.

Sam Berger, Jeff's manager, leaped through the ropes but the referee, Tex Rickard, didn't see him and Johnson landed another and Jeff went down for a third time.

The end had come in the 15th round and Johnson had won undisputed claim to the heavyweight championship of the world.

The Jeffries-Johnson fight took place July 4, 1910, in rip roaring Reno, where the fight was taken by Promoters Rickard and Jack Gleason after several other sites had been ruled out.

Johnson, who had won the heavy title by knocking out Tommy Burns in 1908, had gone into the ring the 10 to 7 underdog in the betting despite the fact he had been active and Jeffries had been inactive for years.

Reno was a madhouse. All the big-name fighters were there as were the gamblers, and rogues of all descriptions. Police were ordered to watch the main streets of the town while the fight was in progress for fear the lawless invaders would invade business places, including the banks.

An accident to Jeffries' car three days before the fight almost caused a postponement. Luckily, Jeff wasn't in his car when it went into a ditch, although he was planning to use it for a fishing trip the next day.

Both men ended their training several days before the fight, Johnson telling newsmen he wouldn't do anything more strenuous than shooting craps.

Johnson asked for police protection in case he won, for feeling against the Negro fighter was bad. Jeffries said he was tired of all the handshakes before the fight and spent his last days playing hearts.

The fight was a 45-round affair with a $101,000 purse of which the winner was to get 75 per cent and the loser 25 per cent.

A special compartment was to be built for the women who would attend the fight. Carpenters struck against building this but finally agreed to do it.

Before the fight Negro churches in Washington prayed for Johnson. One New York broker bet $40,000 against $25,000 that Jeffries would win.

Jeffries weigher 228 and Johnson 209 when they entered the ring. There were no preliminaries. Billy Delaney, the trainer who had made Jeffries a champion, was in Johnson's corner.

The fight began at 2:30 in the afternoon. Seats sold for $10 to $50 and the crowd was listed at 15,760 paid. Rickard, who made $120,000 on the fight, said there were 760 passes given out to newsmen and friends.

When the gladiators entered the ring the Reno brass band struck up: "Just Before the Battle, Mother!"

Johnson wore blue tights and an American flag around his waist.

After the fight race riots swept the country and movies of the fight were ordered held up fearing further trouble.

(End of Season)

Behind the gilt-edge pitching of Johnny Waltman, Hyndman high school closed its Tri-State Conference campaign with a 6 to 2 victory over LaSalle high school, of Cumberland, yesterday at Hyndman.

In marking up his fifth consecutive triumph, Waltman, who finished the season with a record of five win and two losses, let the explorers down with six hits and struck out ten.

It was also Hyndman's fifth consecutive win and enabled the Pennsylvanians to tie Beall for runner-up honors, each team having won seven games and lost three.

Hyndman put the game on ice in the fourth inning by scoring six runs. Bob Miller doubled, Manges fanned, Bryant singled, Stahlman struck out and Waltman batted in two runs with a single to tie the score at 2-2. After Shaffer was hit by pitcher, Richard Emerick connected for a two-run double. At this point Pat Creegan relieved Delaney on the mound for LaSalle. Johnson-Willard fight at Havana race track

Central Press Sports Editor

THE CUBAN congress didn't convene that Monday, April 5, 1915, for it was the date of the heavyweight championship fight in Havana between the titleholder, Jack Johnson, and the challenger, Jess Willard, the white hope from Kansas.

The fight, scheduled at Oriental Park race track, drew several boatloads of spectators from New York and New Orleans and thousands of Cubans, including the legislators.

Despite the fact he was 37, fat and a midget compared to the giant Willard, a 6-foot 7-inch 243-pound cowboy, Johnson entered the ring as favorite at odds of 7 to 5.

As a preliminary to the title defense, Johnson fought a six-round exhibition with Sam McVey on Saturday preceding bout, drawing 4,000 spectators, but it was merely a burlesque. Willard also put on exhibitions, drawing big crowds.

Jack Welch was the referee and Matt Hinkle listed as alternate.

Before the fight Johnson offered to bet $10,000 against $8,000 he would win but couldn't find any takers. Betting on the fight was light.

An extra charge of $1 was tacked on the ticket prices. This was to pay for seeing the races after the fight.

The bout was scheduled for 45 rounds and there were no preliminaries.

Before the battle started Johnson's seconds knocked the back off the ordinary kitchen chair in his corner so he could sit more comfortably. Johnson objected to a woman writer in the press row because of what she might hear and she was moved back.

For 20 rounds Johnson's ring craftsmanship showed. He pounded home blow after blow but they weren't hurting the big Kansan.

When the twentieth round began the throng at the gate outside was let in for $1 a head.

When the twenty-fifth round ended Johnson had word passed to his wife to leave because he was all in and didn't want her to see the end.

In the twenty-sixth the end came. Here is the way Damon Runyan described it:

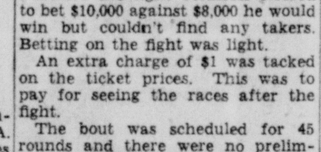

"One ferocious right hand smash to the pit of Johnson's fat black stomach at opening of the twenty-sixth round, followed a half minute late by a terrific clip to the jaw, are the blows that made new history for the American sports on alien soil."

The end came in 1:26 of the twenty-sixth round. Cuban soldiers entered the ring with drawn sabers to rescue the fighters but no riot resulted.

weight title and Johnson, who some say might have got up before the count of 10, lost his title.

Johnson got $30,000 and $2,000 expense money before the fight started. Willard got nothing but training expenses.

The crowd was announced later at 32,000 with receipts $110,000.

YMCA Aquatic Progressive Test Creates Much Teen-age Interest

Agenda Calls for Feats To Be Performed in Different Classes

The Central Y. M. C. A. aquatic progressive test has been creating much teen age interest these past five months, according to C. Van Roby, physical director of the "Y."

The present agenda calls for different swimming feats to be performed by members of the different classes. In the Beginners' Class, called the Minnow Club, twenty-one individual events are called for, which include, putting face into the water and open eyes, look at bottom of pool, permit being pulled on front in glide position by partner, flutter kick on front, holding to gutter, etc. Twenty-five members have passed these test and have received National Y. M. C. A. beginning swimming test cards and are also entitled to purchase the Minnow Club triangular emblem.

The next advanced test is a little harder and successful entrants are enrolled in the Fish Club. There are ten different events which include putting head out of the water, looking straight ahead 30 seconds, push off on back, using hand sculls at hips and flutter kick 20 feet, swim one pool length (60 feet) and make turn and swim 100 yards using two different strokes. Thus far ten have passed.

The middle intermediate swimming and diving test is the next undertaken and passing this test admits one to the Flying Fish Club. There are ten difficult events and thus far only two persons have passed, namely, Mary Catherine Beck of the girls' class and Charles Deter, of the junior boys.

The high intermediate swimming, diving, and pre-life saving test are the highest and most difficult events in the program, and to date no one has advanced to this class.

This is the first time in local history that the Y. M. C. A. has followed the National Progressive Aquatic Test. After each successful test the participants are entitled to the registration cards and Y.M.C.A. emblem. These tests are given every Friday afternoon with James E. Kelley, Jr., aquatic supervisor, in charge.

Sid Weinbach, Allegany high school's undefeated pitcher, made his City League debut yesterday by twirling Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, to its fourth straight victory over the Cumberland Fraternal Order of Eagles at Community Park by the score of 9 to 6.

The high school lad ran into trouble in the first inning when the Eagles nicked him for three runs but he settled down thereafter and went on to win when the Legion exploded for six runs in the fourth inning. Weinbach issued one pass and struck out eight.

Eddie Diehl with three hits in four trips, Norman Gerdeman with two blows, including a homer in the first inning and Bill Cumiskey with two hits, both coming during the six-run splurge, led the Legion attack on Zembower and Elliott. Carl Rossi garnered three blows, Yaider smacked a triple, Puffinburger and Joe Geatz obtained two safeties each and the latter played a bangup game at short, handling nine chances in faultless fashion.

Jimmie Mangus's stop of Joe Geatz's hot smash was the fielding highlight for the Legion.

At Stitcher field, the Queen City Brewers nosed out Fulton Myers Post, American Legion, by the score of 9-8, in a game limited to six innings on account of darkness. Fulton Myers held an 8-3 lead in the second frame but the Brewers rallied behind Bill Stevenson's classy relief pitching to pull the game out of the fire. The boxes:

Four Are Arrested For Asking Excessive Prices for Tickets

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—Four employes of the Jacobs Ticket Agency—one of New York's largest brokerage firms dealing in tickets for sports events—were arrested today on charges of demanding excessive prices for tickets to the Louis-Conn heavyweight title bout June 19.

Evidence was obtained, police said, by tapping telephone wires leading into the agency and recording conversations. Permission to tap the wires was obtained from the Supreme court, they added.

Detectives reported that $150 and $175 had been asked for $100 ringside tickets and $65 had been demanded for $50 seats.

A fifth man was arrested at a midtown hotel stand for selling two $50 seats for $180, the police record showed.

Johnson-Willard fight at Havana race track

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

THE CUBAN congress didn't convene that Monday, April 5, 1915, for it was the date of the heavyweight championship fight in Havana between the titleholder, Jack Johnson, and the challenger, Jess Willard, the white hope from Kansas.

The fight, scheduled at Oriental Park race track, drew several boatloads of spectators from New York and New Orleans and thousands of Cubans, including the legislators.

Despite the fact he was 37, fat and a midget compared to the giant Willard, a 6-foot 7-inch 243-pound cowboy, Johnson entered the ring as favorite at odds of 7 to 5.

As a preliminary to the title defense, Johnson fought a six-round exhibition with Sam McVey on Saturday preceding bout, drawing 4,000 spectators, but it was merely a burlesque. Willard also put on exhibitions, drawing big crowds.

Jack Welch was the referee and Matt Hinkle listed as alternate.

Before the fight Johnson offered to bet $10,000 against $8,000 he would win but couldn't find any takers. Betting on the fight was light.

An extra charge of $1 was tacked on the ticket prices. This was to pay for seeing the races after the fight.

The bout was scheduled for 45 rounds and there were no preliminaries.

Before the battle started Johnson's seconds knocked the back off the ordinary kitchen chair in his corner so he could sit more comfortably. Johnson objected to a woman writer in the press row because of what she might hear and she was moved back.

For 20 rounds Johnson's ring craftsmanship showed. He pounded home blow after blow but they weren't hurting the big Kansan.

When the twentieth round began the throng at the gate outside was let in for $1 a head.

When the twenty-fifth round ended Johnson had word passed to his wife to leave because he was all in and didn't want her to see the end.

In the twenty-sixth the end came. Here is the way Damon Runyan described it:

"One ferocious right hand smash to the pit of Johnson's fat black stomach at opening of the twenty-sixth round, followed a half minute late by a terrific clip to the jaw, are the blows that made new history for the American sports on alien soil."

The end came in 1:26 of the twenty-sixth round. Cuban soldiers entered the ring with drawn sabers to rescue the fighters but no riot resulted.

weight title and Johnson, who some say might have got up before the count of 10, lost his title.

Johnson got $30,000 and $2,000 expense money before the fight started. Willard got nothing but training expenses.

The crowd was announced later at 32,000 with receipts $110,000.

YMCA Aquatic Progressive Test Creates Much Teen-age Interest

Agenda Calls for Feats To Be Performed in Different Classes

The Central Y. M. C. A. aquatic progressive test has been creating much teen age interest these past five months, according to C. Van Roby, physical director of the "Y."

The present agenda calls for different swimming feats to be performed by members of the different classes. In the Beginners' Class, called the Minnow Club, twenty-one individual events are called for, which include, putting face into the water and open eyes, look at bottom of pool, permit being pulled on front in glide position by partner, flutter kick on front, holding to gutter, etc. Twenty-five members have passed these test and have received National Y. M. C. A. beginning swimming test cards and are also entitled to purchase the Minnow Club triangular emblem.

The next advanced test is a little harder and successful entrants are enrolled in the Fish Club. There are ten different events which include putting head out of the water, looking straight ahead 30 seconds, push off on back, using hand sculls at hips and flutter kick 20 feet, swim one pool length (60 feet) and make turn and swim 100 yards using two different strokes. Thus far ten have passed.

The middle intermediate swimming and diving test is the next undertaken and passing this test admits one to the Flying Fish Club. There are ten difficult events and thus far only two persons have passed, namely, Mary Catherine Beck of the girls' class and Charles Deter, of the junior boys.

The high intermediate swimming, diving, and pre-life saving test are the highest and most difficult events in the program, and to date no one has advanced to this class.

This is the first time in local history that the Y. M. C. A. has followed the National Progressive Aquatic Test. After each successful test the participants are entitled to the registration cards and Y.M.C.A. emblem. These tests are given every Friday afternoon with James E. Kelley, Jr., aquatic supervisor, in charge.

Sid Weinbach, Allegany high school's undefeated pitcher, made his City League debut yesterday by twirling Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, to its fourth straight victory over the Cumberland Fraternal Order of Eagles at Community Park by the score of 9 to 6.

The high school lad ran into trouble in the first inning when the Eagles nicked him for three runs but he settled down thereafter and went on to win when the Legion exploded for six runs in the fourth inning. Weinbach issued one pass and struck out eight.

Eddie Diehl with three hits in four trips, Norman Gerdeman with two blows, including a homer in the first inning and Bill Cumiskey with two hits, both coming during the six-run splurge, led the Legion attack on Zembower and Elliott. Carl Rossi garnered three blows, Yalder smacked a triple, Puffinburger and Joe Geatz obtained two safeties each and the latter played a bangup game at short, handling nine chances in faultless fashion.

Jimmie Mangus's stop of Joe Geatz's hot smash was the fielding highlight for the Legion.

At Stitcher field, the Queen City Brewers nosed out Fulton Myers Post, American Legion, by the score of 9-8, in a game limited to six innings on account of darkness. Fulton Myers held an 8-3 lead in the second frame but the Brewers rallied behind Bill Stevenson's classy relief pitching to pull the game out of the fire. The boxes:

Four Are Arrested For Asking Excessive Prices for Tickets

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—Four employes of the Jacobs Ticket Agency—one of New York's largest brokerage firms dealing in tickets for sports events—were arrested today on charges of demanding excessive prices for tickets to the Louis-Conn heavyweight title bout June 19.

Evidence was obtained, police said, by tapping telephone wires leading into the agency and recording conversations. Permission to tap the wires was obtained from the Supreme court, they added.

Detectives reported that $150 and $175 had been asked for $100 ringside tickets and $65 had been demanded for $50 seats.

Dodgers Score Nine in Fifth, Top Bucs, 13-8

National Loop Leaders Belt Sewell, Albosta for 17 Hits

PITTSBURGH, June 6. (AP)—The Guild minded Pittsburgh Pirates spotted the Brooklyn Dodgers a big nine-run fifth inning today and then tried to make a comeback but failed as the National league leaders went on to win their third straight from the Bucs 13-8.

The Dodgers collected 17 hits off four Pirate pitchers and were benefited by seven walks. In the wild fifth, Brooklyn put the first ten batsmen on base and had seven runs over the plate before the frist out was made.

Rip Sewell was relieved during the height of the orgy and Ed Albosta, who replaced him, also was battered about. Box:

Connie Nips Rumor

PHILADELPHIA, June 6. (AP)—Visibly upset, Connie Mack in a voice trembling with anger today squelched a rumor that he is about to step aside as manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

"I'm going to be here for many years to come," declared the 83-year-old diamond patriarch who has piloted the A's since the turn of the century.

Trout Prospects Brighten

By C. V. BURNS

Martin J. Buskey, veteran of the First World war and one of Cumberland's popular baseball players of the early 1920's was laid to rest in Arlington National Cemetery with full military honors on Wednesday.

Twenty-four years ago "Mart" played third base for the old Liberty Athletic Club, which staged its game before large crowds on the Rolling Mill diamond. He was an important cog in one of the best sandlot infield combinations ever developed here. His brother Joe, who needs no introduction to baseball fans of the tri-state area, played shortstop. "Buddy" Preaskorn was the keystone sacker and Walter "Dolly" Bittner played first base.

This quartet came from Maryland avenue and when they were not engaged in a game they were down on the mill diamond practicing. They not only played baseball but they talked it seven days a week. After a game the players would gather at Missouri Jack's on Williams Street and replay the contest until closing time. Bittner used to keep the major league batting averages on his cuff just in case of an argument.

During their greatest season the Liberties, who incidentally outdrew the Coits, who played in an inclosed park near the Taylor Tin Mill, engaged in 53 games, winning 45 against the best independent nines of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland.

Gassed in France, Buskey suffered a breakdown in 1927, and for the past nineteen years he was a patient at Perry Point Veterans' hospital.

We knew "Mart" as a jolly, carefree fellow with a lot of friends and we know his buddies, who served with him overseas, and those at home were sorry to learn of his death.

When Sid Weinbach, Allegany's undefeated southpaw notched his seventh consecutive victory against LaSalle on Tuesday it was the longest winning streak enjoyed by a local scholastic twirler since William "Boots" Miller's eight in a row for AHS fourteen years ago.

Miller, also a portsider, and still pitching winning ball in the local amateur ranks, lost his first two starts and then settled down to business and closed the campaign by snaring eight straight.

The new Monmouth Park race track at Oceanport, N. J., which is headed by Eddie J. Brennan, who resigned his post as racing secretary at Fairgo after twenty-one years' service, is scheduled to open next Monday if clear weather holds until then. A crew of 500 men have been getting the new racing plant ready but the recent rains retarded their progress.

J. R. Basco, of Barberton, Ohio, who sent such good boys as Chuck Burns, Lloyd Pine and Cleo McNeal to Cumberland for pro fights in bygone days, and had Ira Hughes and Lee Sheppard knocked out here in a recent show, believes he has squared accounts with the Pasquel brothers for invading the United states and raiding the major leagues of its players.

Basco, who has four fighters now campaigning in Johannesburg, South Africa, has raided the Mexican boxing ranks and imported six boxers from south of the border to fight under his management. They are Miguel Barragan, 126; Manuel Espinoza, 130; Pancho Noriega, 133; Manuel Villagran, 135; Carlos Najera, 147, and Salvador Mendoza, 160.

"If Jorge Pasquel of the Mexican Baseball League can come up here and raid the American and National Leagues of ballplayers there is no reason why I could not take a trip to Mexico and pick out some of the best fighters they have down there and that is just what I have done," Basco writes.

Mike Garbark, brother of Art Garbark, who manages the Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion team in the Interstate Baseball League, has been released outright by the New York Yankees to their Newark farm club of the International League. Mike has been catching for the Yankees since 1944.

West Virginia will be well up among the topnotch trout producing states in the country if the new trout hatchery site in Grant county can be developed to a point at which it could produce 300,000 legal-sized trout annually, according to Jack Shipman, conservation director for the Mountain States.

Umpire Bumped, Kramer Ejected As Browns Lose

Boston Red Sox Defeat St. Louis on Homer by Williams, 5-4

BOSTON, June 6 (AP)—After bumping Hal Weaver and being bumped in turn, St. Louis pitcher Jack Kramer was thrown out of the game today as the Boston Red Sox trimmed the Browns 5-4 on the strength of Ted Williams's tenth home run of the year, which scored Johnny Pesky ahead of him.

The Sox maintained their clean home record against the western clubs.

There had been several arguments between umpires and members of both clubs before the Kramer-Weafer affair, which came in the fourth inning.

With the score one-all, three men on base and two out, Catcher Hal Wagner banged one of Kramer's serves down the first base line and Babe Dahlgren fumbled.

Johnny Berardino recovered the ball and flipped it to Kramer covering first. Weafer called Wagner safe and was rushed by Kramer.

Meanwhile, Rudy York had scored from third and DiMaggio had crossed the plate from second. Kramer, who earlier had been arguing with Plate Umpire Art Passarella over balls and strikes, slammed into Weafer a couple of times and Weafer bumped the Brownie flinger in turn.

Kramer was thumbed out and turned and heaved the ball over the stands.

After that row had been decided and Jack Miller called from the bull pen to pitch for the Browns, Passarella ordered DiMaggio back on third base.

Then it was Joe Cronin's turn. He and several other Sockers tore after the umpires.

That argument was settled with DiMaggio on third. Passarella gestured at Weafer indicating that the latter had called time when his argument with Kramer began.

DiMaggio promptly tried to steal home and was out at the plate ending the inning. Box:

Big Red yielded only four singles and fanned four batters while walking three to give the Yankees a clean sweep of the three-game series. It also was Ruffing's forty-sixth shutout. Box:

Louis Cuts Loose

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 6 (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis swung his right fist devastatingly today to disprove a report that he had injured it in training.

Louis, returning to action after a one-day layoff, shook sparring partner Jimmy Bell with a terrific right to the head in the first of their two rounds of sparring and had him almost out from a similar punch in the second. Joe also jarred George Fitch with right-hand wallops in a workout which impressed ringsiders.

Loudoun Boy Refund Means Loss of $31,987 To Delaware Track

DELAWARE PARK, Del., June 7 (AP)—The Delaware Steeplechase and Racing Association calls it an "investment in good will" when it refunded $31,987 out of its own pocket on the horse Loudon Boy, which, apparently sore going to the post for Wednesday's last race, broke from the gate, but was soon eased up by apprentice Paul Miller.

Loudon Boy legally was a starter and money need not have been refunded. When it was decided to refund anyway, a mistake was made in the premature pushing of the "official" button before the mutuel department had been notified, or had a chance to recount the pool to make the allowance for the Loudoun Boy refund.

To recall the red board would have made confusion and misunderstanding, the management contends, so Delaware Park took the loss. There was $20,175 bet on Loudoun Boy straight, $7,209 second and $4,603 third, making a total of $31,987.

Will Continue Raids

MEXICO CITY, June 6 (AP)—The Mexican baseball league is going fishing again with a silver hook in U. S. major league waters.

Unconfirmed but reliable reports said Bernardo Pasquel, vice president of the league, and Mickey Owen, formerly with the Brooklyn Dodgers and now playing-manager of the Vera Cruz Blues, had left for the United States to line up additional talent for the hot tamale circuit.

To Play In Britain

PHILADELPHIA, June 6 (AP)—Fred Corcoran, tournament manager for the Professional Golfers Association, said today that Sam Snead, Hot Springs, Va., and George Fazio, Los Angeles, were the latest American pros signifying their intentions to try for the British open golf championship next month. Already entered are Lloyd Mangrum, Lawson Little, Jimmy Demaret and Johnny Bulla. Entries close tonight.

Murphy Declares Pirates Will Go On Strike Today

Benswanger Expects Game with New York Giants To Be Played

PITTSBURGH, June 6 (AP)—President William E. Benswanger of the Pittsburgh Pirates today appealed for settlement by "orderly, legal" methods of the threat by Pirate ballplayers to go on strike tomorrow.

The Pirate president made the statement in reply to the announcement by Robert Murphy, labor relations director of the American Baseball Guild, that the Pirates will not take the field against the New York Giants tomorrow night unless the management agrees to recognize the Guild.

Benswanger said it was "incredible" that "any club or ball players would be willing to take any other than means provided by law to settle" the dispute.

"At the close of our discussions with Mr. Murphy yesterday, it was our understanding that he intended to go ahead with his case before the National Labor Relations Board, in the usual way. We have had no word to the contrary from him.

"As far as we are concerned, the whole matter, including the timing of any election, is in the hands of the board; and it seems incredible to us that a man of Mr. Murphy's reported experience in labor matters would abandon this orderly, legal way to settle this matter, or that any club or ball players would be willing to take any other than means provided by law to settle it.

"Accordingly, we expect that tomorrow night's game with the Giants, and our other games, will be played on schedule."

Murphy, who attended today's game between the Dodgers and the Pirates, expressed amazement that he had not been apprised of Benswanger's statement before it was announced.

"I'm the only one in the dark about it," he said, when asked for comment.

The Guildsman immediately got a Pirate attorney on the telephone and said:

"We are going to do what we have to do. From now on we will not contact the Pittsburgh Baseball Club. It will be up to the club to come to us."

Earlier, Murphy had told newsmen:

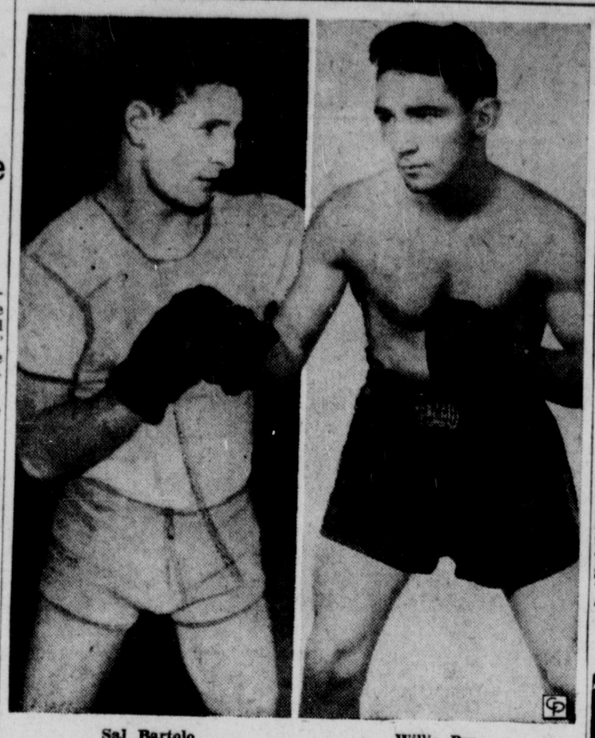

"I've done everything in my power to meet them today. If they don't meet with us, then I'll see to it that the chance of a strike increases."

Padgett Will Become Journeyman Jockey

DELAWARE PARK, Del., June 6 —(AP)—Apprentice Don Padgett, who has ridden approximately 155 winners in a single year in spite of the fact he was inactive for four and one-half months due to a broken arm suffered in an auto accident last fall, will become a journeyman jockey after Saturday's racing.

This means that Padgett cannot claim the five pounds apprentice allowance in the future. The 18-year-old Walterboro (S.C.) lad's first winner was a horse named Diplouq. Padgett's first venture on the "big time" was at Garden State Park last summer. He went on to Laurel to be one of the leading booters there until he suffered his arm injury.

BATTLE FOR FEATHER TITLE

Sal Bartolo Willie Pep

FEATHERWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP of the world will be decided tonight in New York when the two claimants for the throne, Willie Pep and Sal Bartolo, clash in a fifteen-round bout. Pep is recognized as champion in New York and Connecticut while Bartolo is the NBA titleholder.

Pep Is Favored To Beat Bartolo

Willie To Forfeit Title if He Fails To Make Feather Limit

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP) — Sal Bartolo and Willie Pep, a couple of featherweight champions, meet in a 15-round bout in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night to determine who will be unanimously recognized as THE champion.

Pep, the flashy Hartford, Conn., youngster, is recognized in New York as world titleholder, and Bartolo, from Boston, has the recognition of the National Boxing Association.

Pep has been faced with a weighty problem in his preparation for the bout. In his last fight here he tipped the scales at 129½, and it is reported that he has been having considerable trouble getting down to the 126-pound limit. If he failed to make it he would forfeit his title.

Despite the rigors of this boiling down process, the Hartford lad has been installed a sharp favorite over Bartolo, whom he defeated in two previous meetings. Bartolo won his NBA crown in March, 1944, by decisioning Phil Terranova in fifteen rounds at Boston.

Bartolo, apparently unworried by weight troubles, ended his preparation in routine manner and appeared fit to give his best effort.

Yanks Sign Hickerson

BOSTON, June 6 (AP)—Ed Hickerson who played a rugged guard for the University of Alabama from the opening game of his sophomore year in 1938 through 1940, today signed a contract to play with the Boston Yanks of the National Football League.

Legion and East Side Get Spotlight Today

Leading contenders in the City Softball League race will meet today when Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, holder of first place, does battle with East Side on East Side field.

Lacy's Delicatets, runners-up, will meet the VFW at Community Park, Keegan's Jupers will play hosts to the fast-stepping Maccabees at Campobello, and the Shamrocks and Williams Street Merchants will collide on the Rolling Mill field.

Bivins and Charles Matched for July 1 Bout in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, June 6 (AP)—The Rooney-McGinley company tonight announced it had matched Light - Heavyweight Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati and heavyweight Jimmy Bivans of Cleveland for a return bout July 1 at Forbes field.

In their previous encounter January 7, 1943, in Cleveland, Bivins handed the Cincinnati boy a sound threshing and cut short an Ezzard winning streak. Charles now believes he is ready for another shot at Bivins and has been clamoring for the bout ever since he got out of the service.

Chicago Buys Pitcher

ST. LOUIS, June 6 (AP)—Al Hollingsworth, veteran southpaw pitcher, has been sold by the St. Louis Browns to the Chicago White Sox for the waiver price of $7,500, William O. DeWitt, vice president of the Browns, said today. Hollingsworth is expected to report to the Sox immediately.

Dodgers Score Nine in Fifth, Top Bucs, 13-8

National Loop Leaders Belt Sewell, Albosta for 17 Hits

PITTSBURGH, June 6. (AP)—The Guild minded Pittsburgh Pirates spotted the Brooklyn Dodgers a big nine-run fifth inning today and then tried to make a comeback but failed as the National league leaders went on to win their third straight from the Bucs 13-8.

The Dodgers collected 17 hits off four Pirate pitchers and were benefited by seven walks. In the wild fifth, Brooklyn put the first ten batsmen on base and had seven runs over the plate before the frist out was made.

Rip Sewell was relieved during the height of the orgy and Ed Albosta, who replaced him, also was battered about. Box:

Connie Nips Rumor

PHILADELPHIA, June 6. (AP)—Visibly upset, Connie Mack in a voice trembling with anger today squelched a rumor that he is about to step aside as manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

"I'm going to be here for many years to come," declared the 83-year-old diamond patriarch who has piloted the A's since the turn of the century.

Death Takes Mart Buskey

Miller Won Eight in Row

Basco Raids Mexico Boxers

Trout Prospects Brighten

By C. V. BURNS

Martin J. Buskey, veteran of the First World war and one of Cumberland's popular baseball players of the early 1920's was laid to rest in Arlington National Cemetery with full military honors on Wednesday.

Twenty-four years ago "Mart" played third base for the old Liberty Athletic Club, which staged its game before large crowds on the Rolling Mill diamond. He was an important cog in one of the best sandlot infield combinations ever developed here. His brother Joe, who needs no introduction to baseball fans of the tri-state area, played shortstop. "Buddy" Preaskorn was the keystone sacker and Walter "Dolly" Bittner played first base.

This quartet came from Maryland avenue and when they were not engaged in a game they were down on the mill diamond practicing. They not only played baseball but they talked it seven days a week. After a game the players would gather at Missouri Jack's on Williams Street and replay the contest until closing time. Bittner used to keep the major league batting averages on his cuff just in case of an argument.

During their greatest season the Liberties, who incidentally outdrew the Colts, who played in an inclosed park near the Taylor Tin Mill, engaged in 53 games, winning 45 against the best independent nines of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland.

Gassed in France, Buskey suffered a breakdown in 1927, and for the past nineteen years he was a patient at Perry Point Veterans' hospital.

We knew "Mart" as a jolly, carefree fellow with a lot of friends and we know his buddies, who served with him overseas, and those at home were sorry to learn of his death.

When Sid Weinbach, Allegany's undefeated southpaw notched his seventh consecutive victory against LaSalle on Tuesday it was the longest winning streak enjoyed by a local scholastic twirler since William "Boots" Miller's eight in a row for AHS fourteen years ago.

Miller, also a portsider, and still pitching winning ball in the local amateur ranks, lost his first two starts and then settled down to business and closed the campaign by snaring eight straight.

The new Monmouth Park race track at Oceanport, N. J., which is headed by Eddie J. Brennan, who resigned his post as racing secretary at Fairgo after twenty-one years' service, is scheduled to open next Monday if clear weather holds until then. A crew of 500 men have been getting the new racing plant ready but the recent rains retarded their progress.

J. R. Basco, of Barberton, Ohio, who sent such good boys as Chuck Burns, Lloyd Pine and Cleo McNeal to Cumberland for pro fights in bygone days, and had Ira Hughes and Lee Sheppard knocked out here in a recent show, believes he has squared accounts with the Pasquel brothers for invading the United states and raiding the major leagues of its players.

Basco, who has four fighters now campaigning in Johannesburg, South Africa, has raided the Mexican boxing ranks and imported six boxers from south of the border to fight under his management. They are Miguel Barragan, 126; Manuel Espinoza, 130; Pancho Noriega, 133; Manuel Villagran, 135; Carlos Najera, 147, and Salvador Mendoza, 160.

"If Jorge Pasquel of the Mexican Baseball League can come up here and raid the American and National Leagues of ballplayers there is no reason why I could not take a trip to Mexico and pick out some of the best fighters they have down there and that is just what I have done," Basco writes.

Mike Garbark, brother of Art Garbark, who manages the Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion team in the Interstate Baseball League, has been released outright by the New York Yankees to their Newark farm club of the International League. Mike has been catching for the Yankees since 1944.

West Virginia will be well up among the topnotch trout producing states in the country if the new trout hatchery site in Grant county can be developed to a point at which it could produce 300,000 legal-sized trout annually, according to Jack Shipman, conservation director for the Mountain States.

Umpire Bumped, Kramer Ejected As Browns Lose

Boston Red Sox Defeat St. Louis on Homer by Williams, 5-4

BOSTON, June 6 (AP)—After bumping Hal Weaver and being bumped in turn, St. Louis pitcher Jack Kramer was thrown out of the game today as the Boston Red Sox trimmed the Browns 5-4 on the strength of Ted Williams's tenth home run of the year, which scored Johnny Pesky ahead of him.

The Sox maintained their clean home record against the western clubs.

There had been several arguments between umpires and members of both clubs before the Kramer-Weafer affair, which came in the fourth inning.

With the score one-all, three men on base and two out, Catcher Hal Wagner banged one of Kramer's serves down the first base line and Babe Dahlgren fumbled.

Johnny Berardino recovered the ball and flipped it to Kramer covering first. Weafer called Wagner safe and was rushed by Kramer.

Meanwhile, Rudy York had scored from third and DiMaggio had crossed the plate from second. Kramer, who earlier had been arguing with Plate Umpire Art Passarella over balls and strikes, slammed into Weafer a couple of times and Weafer bumped the Brownie flinger in turn.

Kramer was thumbed out and turned and heaved the ball over the stands.

After that row had been decided and Jack Miller called from the bull pen to pitch for the Browns, Passarella ordered DiMaggio back on third base.

Then it was Joe Cronin's turn. He and several other Sockers tore after the umpires.

That argument was settled with DiMaggio on third. Passarella gestured at Weafer indicating that the latter had called time when his argument with Kramer began.

DiMaggio promptly tried to steal home and was out at the plate ending the inning. Box:

Louis Cuts Loose

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 6 (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis swung his right fist devastatingly today to disprove a report that he had injured it in training.

Louis, returning to action after a one-day layoff, shook sparring partner Jimmy Bell with a terrific right to the head in the first of their two rounds of sparring and had him almost out from a similar punch in the second. Joe also jarred George Fitch with right-hand wallops in a workout which impressed ringsiders.

Loudoun Boy Refund Means Loss of $31,987 To Delaware Track

DELAWARE PARK, Del., June 7 (AP)—The Delaware Steeplechase and Racing Association calls it an "investment in good will" when it refunded $31,987 out of its own pocket on the horse Loudon Boy, which, apparently sore going to the post for Wednesday's last race, broke from the gate, but was soon eased up by apprentice Paul Miller.

Loudon Boy legally was a starter and money need not have been refunded. When it was decided to refund anyway, a mistake was made in the premature pushing of the "official" button before the mutuel department had been notified, or had a chance to recount the pool to make the allowance for the Loudoun Boy refund.

To recall the red board would have made confusion and misunderstanding, the management contends, so Delaware Park took the loss. There was $20,175 bet on Loudoun Boy straight, $7,209 second and $4,603 third, making a total of $31,987.

Will Continue Raids

MEXICO CITY, June 6 (AP)—The Mexican baseball league is going fishing again with a silver hook in U. S. major league waters.

Unconfirmed but reliable reports said Bernardo Pasquel, vice president of the league, and Mickey Owen, formerly with the Brooklyn Dodgers and now playing-manager of the Vera Cruz Blues, had left for the United States to line up additional talent for the hot tamale circuit.

Already entered are Lloyd Mangrum, Lawson Little, Jimmy Demaret and Johnny Bulla. Entries close tonight.

Benswanger Expects Game with New York Giants To Be Played

PITTSBURGH, June 6 (AP)—President William E. Benswanger of the Pittsburgh Pirates today appealed for settlement by "orderly, legal" methods of the threat by Pirate ballplayers to go on strike tomorrow.

The Pirate president made the statement in reply to the announcement by Robert Murphy, labor relations director of the American Baseball Guild, that the Pirates will not take the field against the New York Giants tomorrow night unless the management agrees to recognize the Guild.

Benswanger said it was "incredible" that "any club or ball players would be willing to take any other than means provided by law to settle" the dispute.

"At the close of our discussions with Mr. Murphy yesterday, it was our understanding that he intended to go ahead with his case before the National Labor Relations Board, in the usual way. We have had no word to the contrary from him.

"As far as we are concerned, the whole matter, including the timing of any election, is in the hands of the board; and it seems incredible to us that a man of Mr. Murphy's reported experience in labor matters would abandon this orderly, legal way to settle this matter, or that any club or ball players would be willing to take any other than means provided by law to settle it.

"Accordingly, we expect that tomorrow night's game with the Giants, and our other games, will be played on schedule."

Murphy, who attended today's game between the Dodgers and the Pirates, expressed amazement that he had not been apprised of Benswanger's statement before it was announced.

"I'm the only one in the dark about it," he said, when asked for comment.

The Guildsman immediately got a Pirate attorney on the telephone and said:

"We are going to do what we have to do. From now on we will not contact the Pittsburgh Baseball Club. It will be up to the club to come to us."

Earlier, Murphy had told newsmen:

"I've done everything in my power to meet them today. If they don't meet with us, then I'll see to it that the chance of a strike increases."

Padgett Will Become Journeyman Jockey

DELAWARE PARK, Del., June 6 (AP)—Apprentice Don Padgett, who has ridden approximately 155 winners in a single year in spite of the fact he was inactive for four and one-half months due to a broken arm suffered in an auto accident last fall, will become a journeyman jockey after Saturday's racing.

This means that Padgett cannot claim the five pounds apprentice allowance in the future. The 18-year-old Walterboro (S.C.) lad's first winner was a horse named Diplouq. Padgett's first venture on the "big time" was at Garden State Park last summer. He went on to Laurel to be one of the leading booters there until he suffered his arm injury.

BATTLE FOR FEATHER TITLE

Sal Bartolo — Willie Pep

FEATHERWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP of the world will be decided tonight in New York when the two claimants for the throne, Willie Pep and Sal Bartolo, clash in a fifteen-round bout. Pep is recognized as champion in New York and Connecticut while Bartolo is the NBA titleholder.

Pep Is Favored To Beat Bartolo

Willie To Forfeit Title if He Fails To Make Feather Limit

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP) — Sal Bartolo and Willie Pep, a couple of featherweight champions, meet in a 15-round bout in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night to determine who will be unanimously recognized as THE champion.

Pep, the flashy Hartford, Conn., youngster, is recognized in New York as world titleholder, and Bartolo, from Boston, has the recognition of the National Boxing Association.

Pep has been faced with a weighty problem in his preparation for the bout. In his last fight here he tipped the scales at 129½, and it is reported that he has been having considerable trouble getting down to the 126-pound limit. If he failed to make it he would forfeit his title.

Despite the rigors of this boiling down process, the Hartford lad has been installed a sharp favorite over Bartolo, whom he defeated in two previous meetings. Bartolo won his NBA crown in March, 1944, by decisioning Phil Terranova in fifteen rounds at Boston.

Bartolo, apparently unworried by weight troubles, ended his preparation in routine manner and appeared fit to give his best effort.

Yanks Sign Hickerson

BOSTON, June 6 (AP)—Ed Hickerson who played a rugged guard for the University of Alabama from the opening game of his sophomore year in 1938 through 1940, today signed a contract to play with the Boston Yanks of the National Football League.

Legion and East Side Get Spotlight Today

Lacy's Delicatets, runners-up, will meet the VFW at Community Park, Keegan's Jupers will play hosts to the fast-stepping Maccabees at Campobello, and the Shamrocks and Williams Street Merchants will collide on the Rolling Mill field.

Bivins and Charles Matched for July 1 Bout in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, June 6 (AP)—The Rooney-McGinley company tonight announced it had matched Light - Heavyweight Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati and heavyweight Jimmy Bivans of Cleveland for a return bout July 1 at Forbes field.

In their previous encounter January 7, 1943, in Cleveland, Bivins handed the Cincinnati boy a sound threshing and cut short an Ezzard winning streak. Charles now believes he is ready for another shot at Bivins and has been clamoring for the bout ever since he got out of the service.

Mike Turnesa Is Leader in $15,000 Golf Tournament

Posts Five-under-Par 65 for Two-Stroke Edge in Inquirer Open

PHILADELPHIA, June 6. (AP)—Mike Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., shot a five-under-par 65 today as the field ran far ahead of the favorites in the first round of the Philadelphia Inquirer $15,000 open golf tournament—final warmup for the National Open championship at Cleveland next week.

Two strokes behind the 38-year-old Turnesa came Lewis E. Worsham, Jr., of Bethesda, Md., and Capt. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis amateur who won the 1946 North and South open, each with 67. Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C., was next with a 68.

Such pre-tourney favorites as Ben Hogan, Sam Snead and Lawson Little fell far behind Turnesa's blistering pace.

Only three of 13 current leading money winners of 1946 playing in this tournament succeeded in breaking par on the Llanerch Country Club's 6,405-yard, par 70 course as the field set out in pursuit of the top prize of $2,500.

The three were Bob Hamilton of Chicago, 1944 PGA champion; Jimmy Demaret of Houston, and Lloyd Mangrum of Los Angeles, who were bracketed with Ed Oliver of Wilmington, Del., and Bruce Coltart of Absecon, N. J., with 69s.

Par shooters included two Pennsylvania amateurs, Harry Haverstick Jr., of Lancaster, and John Markel of Reading, along with professionals Harry Todd of Dallas, Vic Ghezzi of Knoxville, Tenn., Dick Metz of Arkansas City, Kas., Johnny Bulla and Ellsworth Vines of Chicago, and Charles Schneider of Philadelphia.

Far in the rear of this stage were Hogan, winner of the last three major tournaments, with 73; Little, 1940 national open titlist, and Sam Snead, with 76s. Hogan's 73 put him in a 16-way tie for thirtieth place.

Additional surveys of this location by Cy Willis, state hatcheries supervisor, have confirmed this earlier estimate of the potentialities of the location.

The land known as the Sites property was purchased last year for $8,000. It consists of 41 acres which include a spring which flows 4,000 gallons a minute even in times of drouth. Land secured for the hatchery is about six miles from Petersburg near Dorcas. Its development will require expenditure of a considerable sum of money on approximately six acres of the purchase.

Distribution of legal-sized fish this past spring totaled approximately 175,000 from all sources in the state. An additional 300,000 from the new development would really make West Virginia trout fishing a paradise.

Entries for the South Atlantic Association (AAU) track and field meet, scheduled for tomorrow at Homewood field, Baltimore, have exceeded the 200 mark, according to Charles R. "Bucky" Miller, chairman of the meet. Although entries closed last Sunday, servicemen applications will be received until the last minute.

Boxing fans often have wondered just what preliminary figrters received for matches in New York.

The New York Boxing Managers Guild has called upon Promoter Mike Jacobs to increase the purses of preliminary boxers and have established next Monday as a deadline for the reply.

One hundred and fifty dollars for each four-round fightaer; for each four-round fighter; and $1,500 for each semi-final fighter.

It stipulates that there must be a semi-final on every boxing program.

Jacob's office had no comment to make on the Guild's demands and declared there never has been an established scale for either preliminary or main-event fighter.

The Guild says there will be no compromise but refused, however, to say what action will be taken should its demands be turned down.

Mike Turnesa Is Leader in $15,000 Golf Tournament

Posts Five-under-Par 65 for Two-Stroke Edge in Inquirer Open

PHILADELPHIA, June 6. (AP)—Mike Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., shot a five-under-par 65 today as the field ran far ahead of the favorites in the first round of the Philadelphia Inquirer $15,000 open golf tournament—final warmup for the National Open championship at Cleveland next week.

Two strokes behind the 38-year-old Turnesa came Lewis E. Worsham, Jr., of Bethesda, Md., and Capt. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis amateur who won the 1946 North and South open, each with 67. Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C., was next with a 68.

Such pre-tourney favorites as Ben Hogan, Sam Snead and Lawson Little fell far behind Turnesa's blistering pace.

Only three of 13 current leading money winners of 1946 playing in this tournament succeeded in breaking par on the Llanerch Country Club's 6,405-yard, par 70 course as the field set out in pursuit of the top prize of $2,500.

The three were Bob Hamilton of Chicago, 1944 PGA champion; Jimmy Demaret of Houston, and Lloyd Mangrum of Los Angeles, who were bracketed with Ed Oliver of Wilmington, Del., and Bruce Coltart of Absecon, N. J., with 69s.

Par shooters included two Pennsylvania amateurs, Harry Haverstick Jr., of Lancaster, and John Markel of Reading, along with professionals Harry Todd of Dallas, Vic Ghezzi of Knoxville, Tenn., Dick Metz of Arkansas City, Kas., Johnny Bulla and Ellsworth Vines of Chicago, and Charles Schneider of Philadelphia.

Far in the rear of this stage were Hogan, winner of the last three major tournaments, with 73; Little, 1940 national open titlist, and Sam Snead, with 76s. Hogan's 73 put him in a 16-way tie for thirtieth place.

Additional surveys of this location by Cy Willis, state hatcheries supervisor, have confirmed this earlier estimate of the potentialities of the location.

The land known as the Sites property was purchased last year for $8,000. It consists of 41 acres which include a spring which flows 4,000 gallons a minute even in times of drouth. Land secured for the hatchery is about six miles from Petersburg near Dorcas. Its development will require expenditure of a considerable sum of money on approximately six acres of the purchase.

Distribution of legal-sized fish this past spring totaled approximately 175,000 from all sources in the state. An additional 300,000 from the new development would really make West Virginia trout fishing a paradise.

Entries for the South Atlantic Association (AAU) track and field meet, scheduled for tomorrow at Homewood field, Baltimore, have exceeded the 200 mark, according to Charles R. "Bucky" Miller, chairman of the meet. Although entries closed last Sunday, servicemen applications will be received until the last minute.

Boxing fans often have wondered just what preliminary figrters received for matches in New York.

The New York Boxing Managers Guild has called upon Promoter Mike Jacobs to increase the purses of preliminary boxers and have established next Monday as a deadline for the reply.

One hundred and fifty dollars for each four-round fightaer; for each four-round fighter; and $1,500 for each semi-final fighter.

It stipulates that there must be a semi-final on every boxing program.

Jacob's office had no comment to make on the Guild's demands and declared there never has been an established scale for either preliminary or main-event fighter.

The Guild says there will be no compromise but refused, however, to say what action will be taken should its demands be turned down.

Radio Networks Book Two More Summer Shows

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—Two more additions to the summer schedule come up Friday night.

On CBS, taking over from the departed Danny Kaye show at 8 and to run through the fall is a revival of the Orsen Welles "Mercury Theater." It will start off with Jules Verne's "Around the World in Eighty Days." Welles is doing acting, producing and directing.

On NBC at 10:30 opens a seventeen weeks series under the title of "Tales of the Foreign Service." The first one will dramatize the adventures of Walter W. Orebaugh, American consul in Italy in World War II. The scripts are based on files of the foreign service of the department of state.

Moore and Durante of CBS are bidding goodbye to the air for the summer, their show at 8:30 to have something a vacation flavor.

The bout for ABC broadcasting at 9 is rated as a championship match in the featherweight division, and for that reason is scheduled for fifteen rounds. The principals are Champion Willie Pep and Chalenger Sol Bartolo.

The Paul Lavalle Melody of NBC at 7 is to take the form of a salute to baseball, with Dorothy Kirsten as guest in the solo singing division.

Meet the Press of MBS at 9:30 is to turn its questions on Sen. Homer E. Capehart, of Indiana, with some of them expected to deal with the matter of the extension of OPA.

Paid in Full

Radio Networks Book Two More Summer Shows

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—Two more additions to the summer schedule come up Friday night.

On CBS, taking over from the departed Danny Kaye show at 8 and to run through the fall is a revival of the Orsen Welles "Mercury Theater." It will start off with Jules Verne's "Around the World in Eighty Days." Welles is doing acting, producing and directing.

On NBC at 10:30 opens a seventeen weeks series under the title of "Tales of the Foreign Service." The first one will dramatize the adventures of Walter W. Orebaugh, American consul in Italy in World War II. The scripts are based on files of the foreign service of the department of state.

Moore and Durante of CBS are bidding goodbye to the air for the summer, their show at 8:30 to have something a vacation flavor.

The bout for ABC broadcasting at 9 is rated as a championship match in the featherweight division, and for that reason is scheduled for fifteen rounds. The principals are Champion Willie Pep and Chalenger Sol Bartolo.

The Paul Lavalle Melody of NBC at 7 is to take the form of a salute to baseball, with Dorothy Kirsten as guest in the solo singing division.

Meet the Press of MBS at 9:30 is to turn its questions on Sen. Homer E. Capehart, of Indiana, with some of them expected to deal with the matter of the extension of OPA.

LIVINGSTON, Mont. (AP) — The Livingston Enterprise apologized for sending a bill to Grant Milligan. A subscriber since 1911, Milligan produced receipts showing his subscription paid until 1969.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our Mother, Mrs. S. L. Henderson, who passed away three years ago, May 31, 1943.

Somewhere, dear Mother,
Where it is beautiful,
You are at rest
In the keep of God's angels.
Forever will be blessed
In our hearts we still love
And think of you.

Sadly missed by
HER CHILDREN.
6-6-1t-TN

In loving memory of Ralph W. Hershman, of Westernport, who was killed off the shores of Normandy, June 6, 1944.

Deep in our hearts lies a picture,
Of a loved one gone to rest,
In our memory we shall always keep it,
Because he was one of the best.

Some may think we are not lonely,
When at times they see us smile,
But little do they know the heartache
We suffer all the while.

Oft and oft our thoughts do wander
To the waters so far away,
Where they last saw our loved one -
Just two years ago today.

Sadly missed by
MR. AND MRS. RUSSELL PAUGH, MRS. DIXIE SCHELL, LEWIS E. HERSHMAN, M.M. 3-c, U. S. N. AND HIS AGED GRANDMOTHER, MRS. W. C. DAVIS.
6-6-1t-TN

In loving memory of our son and brother, Slavko Nickolas Krnaya, who passed away June 7, 1941.

Our Son has breathed his last, his mortal breath,
Passed into what men call, but miscall, Death;
Death it is not, but one step more of Life
Eternal, where there is no pain, no strife,
And we shall see him on that Other Shore,
Never to part again—forevermore.

Sadly missed by his Mother, Father, Sister
and Brother.
6-7-1t-NT

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Orland W. Green, who passed away one year ago today, June 7, 1945.

Sad and sudden was the call,
Of one so dearly loved by all.
A bitter grief, a shock severe,
It was to part with one so dear.

We often sit and think of you,
And speak of how you died,
To think you could not say goodbye,
Before you closed your eyes.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials are past,
In silence he suffered in patience he bore,
Till God called him home to suffer no more.

Sadly missed by his Mother, Sisters and Brothers.

Chicken Is "Drowsy" After Being Kayoed

PITTSFIELD, Mass., June 6 (AP) —Kid Chicken of Pittsburgh, who was knocked out last night in the sixth round of his bout with Sam Barodi of Akron, was reported at House of Mercy hospital today as "drowsy."

Chicken regained consciousness during the night and told his manager he did not recall anything that happened after the second round. Dr. Anthony Massiamiano said Chicken had a slight concussion and would remain at the hospital for a week.

Caseys Register

The Texcel Club moved into the .500 class by scoring its third victory over Potomac Edison at Taylor field, 12 to 3.

Randy Jewell tossed a three-hitter while Stewart obtained three hits in three trips and Harvey hammered a three-bagger for the winners. Williams and Stewart, of Texcel, and Hartley, P. E. short fielder, turned in nice catches.

The Outdoor Club stayed right on the heels of the Caseys by chalking up its fourth win against a single defeat over the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce at Campobello. The score was 8-0. Raygor pitched five-hit ball for the victors.

The B.P.O. Elks defeated the Loyal Order of Moose at East Side field, 7-2, and the Knights of Pythias, unable to field a team, forfeited to the Woodmen of the World at Fort Hill.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our Mother, Mrs. S. L. Henderson, who passed away three years ago, May 31, 1943.

Somewhere, dear Mother,
Where it is beautiful,
You are at rest
In the keep of God's angels.
Forever will be blessed
In our hearts we still love
And think of you.

Sadly missed by
HER CHILDREN.
6-6-1t-TN

In loving memory of Ralph W. Hershman, of Westernport, who was killed off the shores of Normandy, June 6, 1944.

Deep in our hearts lies a picture,
Of a loved one gone to rest,
In our memory we shall always keep it,
Because he was one of the best.

Some may think we are not lonely,
When at times they see us smile,
But little do they know the heartache
We suffer all the while.

Oft and oft our thoughts do wander
To the waters so far away
Where they last saw our loved one
Just two years ago today.

Sadly missed by
MR. AND MRS. RUSSELL PAUGH, MRS. DIXIE SCHELL, LEWIS E. HERSHMAN, M.M. 3-c, U. S. N. AND HIS AGED GRANDMOTHER, MRS. W. C. DAVIS.
6-6-1t-TN

In loving memory of our son and brother, Slavko Nickolas Krnaya, who passed away June 7, 1941.

Our Son has breathed his last, his mortal breath,
Passed into what men call, but miscall, Death;
Death it is not, but one step more of Life
Eternal, where there is no pain, no strife,
And we shall see him on that Other Shore,
Never to part again—forevermore.

Mother, Father, Sister
and Brother.
6-7-1t-NT

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Orland W. Green, who passed away one year ago today, June 7, 1946.

Sad and sudden was the call,
Of one so dearly loved by all.
A bitter grief, a shock severe,
It was to part with one so dear.

We often sit and think of you,
And speak of how you died,
To think you could not say goodbye,
Before you closed your eyes.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials are past,
In silence he suffered in patience he bore,
Till God called him home to suffer no more.

Sadly missed by
Mother, Sisters and Brothers.

Large Crowd Sees Firemen's Parade In Corriganville

Harry Walters Is Elected President of Allegany-Garrett County Group

The largest crowd ever seen in Corriganville, estimated at more than 3,500 persons, viewed a colorful parade staged last evening at sundown, by the Allegany and Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association, as part of its thirty-fourth annual convention, being held there this week.

The parade followed a business session which started at 1 p. m. in the Corriganville firemen's hall, with H. A. Lasher, Cresaptown, association president, in charge.

There were delegates present from each of the twenty-four volunteer fire companies in the two counties. The only volunteer fire company in the two counties which was not represented is the one at Kitzmiller, Garrett county, which has never affiliated with the association, although an invitation has been extended several times.

Harry Walters President

Harry Walters, of the Corriganville company, was elected association president for the new fiscal year succeeding Lasher. Chosen to serve with him are, William Chappel, Barton, vice president, succeeding Walters; Chester W. Shimer, Westernport, secretary; and L. E. Wortman, of Luke, treasurer. Both the secretary and treasurer were re-elected.

The executive committee includes, Felix Foote, Lonaconing, who has never missed one of the thirty-four conventions held by the association; Leslie Hendley, Frostburg; Joseph L. Stuckey, Lonaconing, Peter Hughes, Mt. Savage; L. E. Wortman, Luke; Galen Smith, Shaft; William A. Wilson, Midland; Homer Ambrose, McCoole.

Patrick Mills, Westernport; Forest Mowbry, Barton; Nelson Russler, this city; H. Sarer, Bowman's Addition; Harry Wilson, Baltimore Pike; Walter Dawson, Oakland; John Prichard, Grantsville; Charles Patterson, Bloomington, John Chapel, Friendsville; Frederick C. Dreyer, Cumberland and W. M. Sowres, Oldtown Road.

Mt. Savage Next Year

Mt. Savage Volunteer Fire Company, made a successful bid for the next annual convention, to be held about this same time of 1947. Delegates from nearly all companies favored holding the next conclave there.

Delegates also voted to hold the association's annual picnic, on August 11, at Smouse's Beach, for firemen and their families and guests.

Two indorsements were approved. William A. Wilson, Midland, was indorsed for treasurer of the Maryland State Firemen's Association, and Joseph Carter, Mt. Savage, was indorsed for first vice president. The state convention will be held in Frederick, June 19, 20, 21.

A memorial service was held following the business session, in honor of members of the association who died during the past year. The service was conducted by the Rev. John E. Stack, Lonaconing, in honor of Frank Martz, Sr., Griffis Thomas and John Robinette, Corriganville; William Walker, Charles Dillon, William Griffith, Elmer Kight and Joseph Elerich, Frostburg; Patrick J. O'Brien, Midland; and Albert Farris and George Brandlier, Bloomington.

Officers Installed

The first action by the new president was naming a legislative committee, which includes, William A. Wilson, chairman, Nelson Russler, Felix Foote, John Prichard and Charles Patterson, all members of the executive committee.

William Ecton, of Hagerstown, state president attended the business session, accompanied by John Devine and Charles Ecton also of Hagerstown. They are members of the Antietam Volunteer Fire Company there, and were selected last night as judges for the parade.

The parade provided plenty of color and fascination with a score of fire engines, bands and marching units, making up a parade worth seeing.

Included in the line of march were the Lonaconing band, Oakland high school band and Mt. Savage band, fire engines from Lonaconing, Bloomington, Friendsville, Mt. Savage, Grantsville, Midland, Cresaptown, McCoole, Flintstone, Oakland, Westernport, Clarysville, Frostburg, Baltimore Pike, Bedford road, Bowman's Addition and Corriganville.

Stutzman Will Head Labor Unity Conference Here

C. E. Stutzman, president of the Allegany Trades Council and business manager of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, was elected president of the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference at a meeting of the group representing AFL, CIO, Brotherhoods and independent unions of Allegany county.

Stutzman has served as temporary chairman of the group which was reorganized several months ago here. Other permanent officers named last evening were:

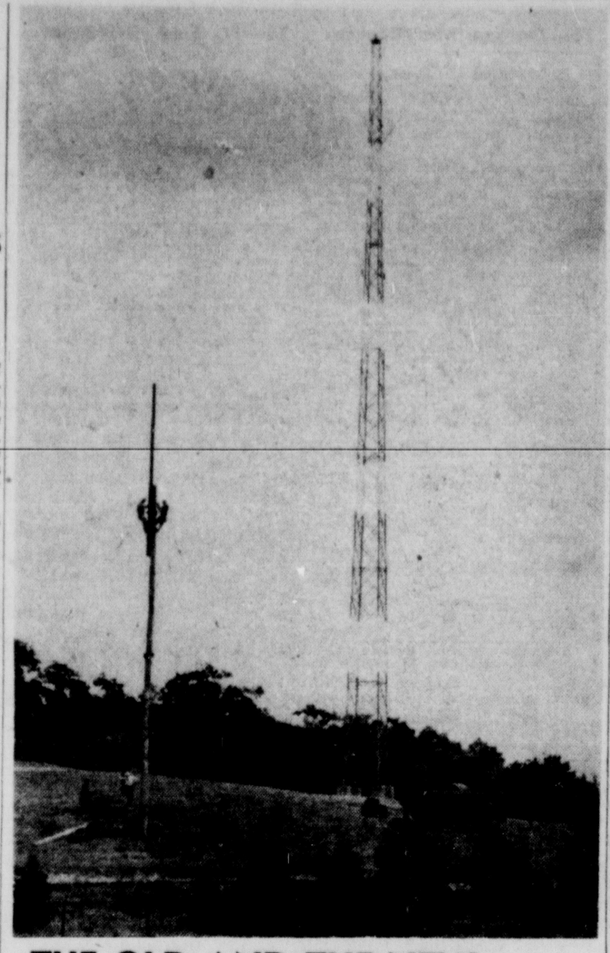

William Boyd Coleman, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, first vice president; J. N. Bourckel, Railway Trainmen, second vice president; Joseph Humbertson, Machinists union, treasurer, and Paul L. Burley, Bus Drivers union, secretary.

W. Henry Frazier, Typographical union; James Condon, Textile union, and W. J. Jones, Boilermakers union, were named trustees for the conference.

The group unanimously adopted a resolution urging that all eligible citizens register at once so they may be eligible to vote in the June 24 primary election.

The labor group indorsed Charles M. See, Stephen L. Cesnick, Lester B. Reed, George Carter and Irvin C. Alexander for nomination to the Maryland House of Delegates; Dawson J. Horine, congressman; George Henderson, associate judge of the Fourth judicial circuit and Jerry Wilkinson and William H. Lemmert as county commissioners.

The group opposed the election of J. Milton Dick as register of wills and repudiated its previous indorsement of Governor Herbert O'Conor.

Construction of New Transmitting Tower for WTBO Is Completed

Old Wooden Masts on Fort Hill Replaced by New Structure

Construction of a new and more efficient transmitting tower for Station WTBO has been completed, Mrs. Aurelia S. Becker, president of the Cumberland Broadcasting Company, announced yesterday.

The structural steel tower, 177½ feet high is located near the Constitution park reservoir on Fort hill. It replaces the two old wooden masts, 85 feet high, which were erected by a Potomac Edison Company crew in 1930. Three of the same men in that crew worked with the nine PE men who tore down the masts this week, Carl L. Wilson, supervisor, in charge of the crew; George W. Youngblood, and John F. Clark.

David W. Jefferies, chief engineer of WTBO since May, 1944, who was in charge of the installation of the new tower, said that listeners should get less outside interference on the WTBO frequency, now that the tower has been put into operation.

Increased Power Cited

Extensive tests by the chief engineer indicate that the effective transmitting power of WTBO has been more than doubled in all directions, due to much greater efficiency of the vertical, self-supported type of antenna.

Jefferies said that after an early morning test program on May 30, when the tower was put into operation, distance listeners wrote in to report hearing WTBO in Macon, Ga., Milwaukee, Wis., and Toronto, Canada.

Original plans called for construction of the tower in 1942, but because of the shortage of materials during the war, construction had to be postponed, Mrs. Becker explained.

The old wooden masts, spaced 165 feet apart, were built because a horizontal cable antenna was used, which was strung between them. In the new tower, the steelwork is the radiating portion, and thus must be insulated from the ground, Jefferies said. Using the base of the tower as a hub, ninety copper wires, buried underground, radiate out like the

Eleanor Kaefer Seeks Court Order To Get Property

Mrs. Eleanor I. Kaefer, represented by Edward J. Ryan, yesterday asked the circuit court for an order that will permit her to move into the premises at 721 Greene street which property she claims was left to her husband according to the terms of his mother's will.

The petition states that Mrs. Kaefer's husband, Frederick Kaefer, suffered a breakdown on January 5 and is now a patient at Springfield State Hospital, Sykesville.

The petition also states that on May 1, 1946, Mrs. Catherine Kaefer died and left a will naming the Second National Bank executor of her estate.

According to the terms of the will, Mrs. Kaefer said the bank was ordered to pay twenty-five dollars a month to each of Mr. and Mrs. Kaefer's three children "with Frederick having the right to live in the premises at 721 Greene street."

Mrs. Kaefer, who has four children to take care of, ages seven, five, two and one month, charges that the bank has refused to let her move into the home on Greene street which the wife contends is a "violation of the obligations and desires of Frederick Kaefer."

Chief Judge William A. Huster signed a court order for the bank to show cause by June 20 why the petitioner should not be allowed to take up residence in the Greene street property.

Sloan Says Local Court Does Not Have Jurisdiction in O'Neal Case

The jurisdiction of the Allegany County Circuit Court in the injunction asked by James W. O'Neal, blind vendor located in the post office building, against the Maryland Workshop for the Blind was questioned yesterday by D. Lindley Sloan representing the workshop, who argued that injunction proceedings would have to originate in Baltimore where the workshop offices are located. The organization does not have an office in this county, Sloan said.

O'Neal invoked local court action a short time ago to thwart efforts of the Maryland Workshop for the Blind to compel him to subscribe to provisions of the 1936 Randolph-Sheppard act of Congress, which conferred upon the state agency the authority to take over management of stands operated by blind men in federal buildings.

Chief Judge William A. Huster yesterday reserved decision in the matter pending study of a multitude of legal pronouncements cited by counsel for both sides to substantiate their claims. William A. Gunter acted as co-council with Sloan while Morris Baron represented O'Neal.

Sloan compared the Maryland Workshop for the Blind to such state agencies as the public service commission, the comptroller's office and others which cannot be brought into court anywhere except the city of their headquarters unless otherwise provided for the statute. On these grounds he asked for dismissal of O'Neal's petition from the local court.

In behalf of O'Neal, Baron said he was disappointed that his client's case was not tried on its merits, but on technicalities, and advanced arguments purporting to establish that the local court had the power to decide on the score of convenience whether the case would be brought up here.

Before yesterday's arguments began, William S. Wratchford, superintendent of the Maryland Workshop for the Blind, and O'Neal were called to the stand to recite the history of their business relations.

O'Neal told the court he started his business in 1935 with the permission of the Post Office department and that he thought he had a right to continue its operation until the department stated otherwise.

Peskin Says He Will Not Agree To Closed Shop

Shoe Store Owner Declares Union Violates Picketing Laws

Morton W. Peskin, owner of Peskin's Shoe Store, in a formal statement issued yesterday declared he "would not concede to a closed union shop" and charged that "all picket laws" are being violated in connection with the strike of clerks of the store.

The statement followed publication of a letter from C. E. Stutzman, president of Allegany Trades Council, which asked school teachers not to cross the picket line of Local 654, Retail Clerks Union.

Refuses Closed Shop

Peskin stated:

"While we have no objection to a union, we insist on dealing with negotiators who are fair and responsible.

"Mr. Stutzman and Mr. McGinnis both have evaded the main issue in this strike. About two weeks ago in William C. Walsh's office in the presence of Fred Puderbaugh, our attorney, they requested that I discharge a returned soldier who had been in our employment 13 years and who has been back from service less than six months; also a discharged Merchant Marine—who has recently returned and who has been in our employment over six years, and my secretary who has been in our employment 16 years unless the three joined the union at once. That evening, a Mr. Travers, a union negotiator from New York, called me and asked if he could speak to these two returned veterans and I told him that he could and that he should bring Mr. McGinnis with him. The veterans informed these gentlemen that it was not their wish to join the union at this time. Mr. McGinnis insisted that the returned soldier must join in six months and that the returned Merchant Marine, as well as my secretary, had to join at once. As we will not concede to a closed union shop, consequently, further negotiations were then called off.

Cites Working Conditions

"Mr. Stutzman has made the statement that they were striking for higher salaries and better working conditions. The average salary for the two girls longest in our employment, who are on strike, for the year 1945, 52 weeks, was $41.94 and $35.07. This does not include the time that they were off. For 1946 the average was $42.61 and $38.59, not including time off. In addition, these salespeople have made as high as $50 a week. We do not have an employe in our organization who does not receive compensation in excess of the proposed union wage scale.

"As far as working conditions go, they are as close to ideal as any store in Cumberland. In addition, it has been the practice to come to work in the morning as late as 9:30 to 10 o'clock, leaving the store early to catch buses, as well as taking from an hour and a half to two hours for lunch. It was also a practice to stay off from work whenever the occasion suited, without advising me that they would not be in. Are these not ideal working conditions.

"In reference to the sales people that we laid off, while it is no reflection on the young ladies in question, they were in our employment not over two and a half months as they were hired for the peak Easter season. This practice has been exercised in every retail establishment, we presume, in the United States. Mr. Travers, the union negotiator, informed Mr. McGinnis, in my presence, that this was strictly in keeping with the custom of retail establishments.

B. & O. Engineer Retires after 45 Years of Service

D. W. Hovatter, This City, Started Railroad Career in 1901

D. W. Hovatter, 69, 721 Hill Top drive, an engineer on the Cumberland division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for forty-five years, has retired.

Born at Philippi, W. Va., Hovatter started his railroad career February 4, 1901, as a fireman. On January 4, 1906, he was promoted to engineer and worked on the Keyser, W. Va., to Brunswick run and from Keyser to Grafton, W. Va., on fast freight. In 1909 he took a yard turn in the Cumberland terminal and until he hung up his cap and gloves on Saturday shunted cars back and forth here.

Hovatter is the father of five sons who served in the armed forces, and three of them also are B. and O. employes. One of them has handled the firebox on his father's yard engine.

Owner of a twenty-acre farm in the Short Gap, W. Va., section, Hovatter plans to continue to live at the Hill Top drive address but also spend part of each day at the farm where he raises chickens, pigs and some crops. At one time he owned a sixty-acre farm in nearby Pennsylvania but sold it because he was unable to devote enough time to its operation.

Hovatter originally planned to retire several years ago, but decided to remain on the job because of the shortage of experienced railroad men during the war. Now that the war is over and four of his five sons are home and the other expects to be discharged soon, he figures it was time to quit.

His five sons are Joseph W. Hovatter, B. and O. fireman, who served as a sergeant in the army air forces; Leo Harold "Tag" Hovatter, also a B. and O. fireman, who served with an army railroad battalion; James J. Hovatter, an aviation cadet in the navy; Robert Ralph Hovatter, also a navy veteran and a pipefitter at the B. and O. roundhouse, and Sgt. Howard O. Hovatter, with the army air forces at Boca Raton, Fla. He expects his discharge soon.

Westernport Girl Is Struck by Car

WESTERNPORT, June 6 — Lois Johnson, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Johnson, Poplar street, was reported in a "fair" condition tonight in Potomac Valley hospital, Keyser, W. Va., where she was admitted this evening after being struck by a car.

Chief Burza Hanlin, who investigated, said that the accident happened on Main street in front of the Church of the Brethren, about 6 p. m. He said the child ran out from behind a bus parked in front of the church and started across the street to the home of Mr. and Mrs. David McRobie, where she was to attend a party.

A car traveling west on Main street struck the child, the chief said, adding that the driver of the car was James Taylor, Westernport. No charges have been placed against the driver, who stopped after the accident.

The child was examined at Reeve's clinic and was taken to the hospital in the squad car by Chief Hanlin. X-rays showed that she suffered a fracture of the femur of the left leg.

School Authorities Attempt To Curb Wild Parties

Fort Hill Senior Celebration Stopped by Interception of Program

A form letter sent to the parents of 168 Fort Hill high school seniors shortly before graduation by Principal Victor D. Heisey revealed that Cumberland school authorities are endeavoring to curb the practice of graduation "drinking parties" by members of senior classes on commencement night.

The contents of Heisey's letter to the parents revealed that plans of some Fort Hill seniors to hold a drinking party had been unearthed with the interception of a typewritten program.

The outline of the planned celebration, which was unsigned, said the private party was planned and would "likely prove the drunkenest, most disgraceful and most talked about party ever put on by a graduating class."

Heisey said in his letter: "Such a celebration of graduates from an institution which has endeavored to direct the education of youth into channels that eventuate in high quality of citizenship certainly does not reflect credit upon the school, the home, the church nor the student, all of whom would have been co-operating in the education endeavor."

The ringleaders of the proposed party were rounded up by school authorities and the diplomas of eight students were withheld until early this week, school officials said.

Meanwhile, plans for a similar party went undetected at Allegany high school and a party that was described by one participant as "pretty rough" was held last Friday night outside of town.

School officials did not comment.

Brook Bodkin Is Cited for Spring Fire Record

Brook Bodkin, senior forest warden, received a certificate of merit at a meeting of state forestry personnel this week in Talbot county and District No. 1, including Allegany and Garrett counties, was cited for having the best spring fire record of any district in the state, District Forester William H. Johnson announced yesterday.

Bodkin received the certificate of merit by the commission of state forests and parks for his fire prevention activities in 1945.

These activities included Bodkin's work in the organization of fire fighting patrols in the district and a series of talks on fire prevention given to 4-H Club groups in the county in conjunction with Assistant County Agent Joseph Steger. Bodkin was also cited for his assistance in developing a system of cooperation among the various wardens, Johnson said.

In gaining recognition for the fire prevention work of District No. 1 in the spring season, it was noted that this district is one of the most thickly timbered in the state with a total of 650,000 acres of woodland. Only forty-two one thousands of one percent of the total amount of timber in District 2 was burned in the spring season, Johnson said.

The Eastern Shore district had the second best fire record in the state for the spring season. District No. 4 was third and District No. 2 was fourth. District 2, the largest, most sprawling district in the state has a total of 700,000 acres of woodland area.

One of the speakers during the afternoon session will be Dr. LeRoy Allen, deputy state health officer of the bureau of communicable diseases, state department of health, who will discuss various phases of Maryland's tuberculosis control program.

At the dinner this evening, Mrs. Carol Tolson, educational director of the Memorial hospital school of nursing, will pay tribute to the veterans of service in the army and navy nurse corps attending the event.

The nurse veterans will be guests of District 1 of the association, which comprises Allegany and Garrett counties, at the dinner, according to Miss Marion Weber, district president, who is general chairman in charge of arrangements.

Stutzman Will Head Labor Unity Conference Here

C. E. Stutzman, president of the Allegany Trades Council and business manager of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, was elected president of the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference at a meeting of the group representing AFL, CIO, Brotherhoods and independent unions of Allegany county.

Stutzman has served as temporary chairman of the group which was reorganized several months ago here. Other permanent officers named last evening were:

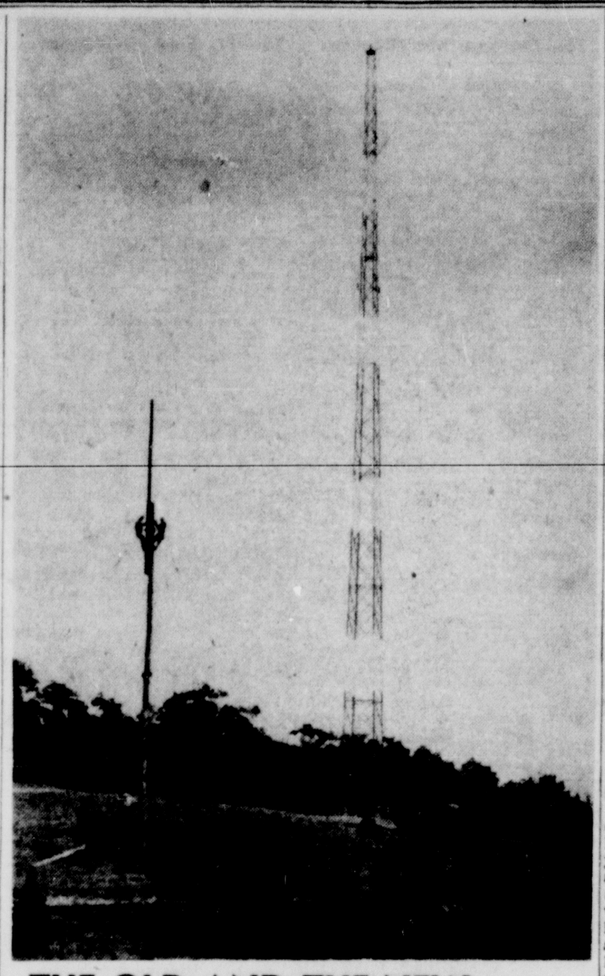

William Boyd Coleman, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, first vice president; J. N. Bourckel, Railway Trainmen, second vice president; Joseph Humbertson, Machinists union, treasurer, and Paul L. Burley, Bus Drivers union, secretary.

W. Henry Frazier, Typographical union; James Condon, Textile union, and W. J. Jones, Boilermakers union, were named trustees for the conference.

The group unanimously adopted a resolution urging that all eligible citizens register at once so they may be eligible to vote in the June 24 primary election.

The labor group indorsed Charles M. See, Stephen L. Cesnick, Lester B. Reed, George Carter and Irvin C. Alexander for nomination to the Maryland House of Delegates; Dawson J. Horine, congressman; George Henderson, associate judge of the Fourth judicial circuit and Jerry Wilkinson and William H. Lemmert as county commissioners.

Construction of New Transmitting Tower for WTBO Is Completed

Old Wooden Masts on Fort Hill Replaced by New Structure

Construction of a new and more efficient transmitting tower for Station WTBO has been completed, Mrs. Aurelia S. Becker, president of the Cumberland Broadcasting Company, announced yesterday.

The structural steel tower, 177½ feet high is located near the Constitution park reservoir on Fort hill. It replaces the two old wooden masts, 85 feet high, which were erected by a Potomac Edison Company crew in 1930. Three of the same men in that crew worked with the nine PE men who tore down the masts this week, Carl L. Wilson, supervisor, in charge of the crew; George W. Youngblood, and John F. Clark.

David W. Jefferies, chief engineer of WTBO since May, 1944, who was in charge of the installation of the new tower, said that listeners should get less outside interference on the WTBO frequency, now that the tower has been put into operation.

Increased Power Cited

Extensive tests by the chief engineer indicate that the effective transmitting power of WTBO has been more than doubled in all directions, due to much greater efficiency of the vertical, self-supported type of antenna.

Jefferies said that after an early morning test program on May 30, when the tower was put into operation, distance listeners wrote in to report hearing WTBO in Macon, Ga., Milwaukee, Wis., and Toronto, Canada.

Original plans called for construction of the tower in 1942, but because of the shortage of materials during the war, construction had to be postponed, Mrs. Becker explained.

The old wooden masts, spaced 165 feet apart, were built because a horizontal cable antenna was used, which was strung between them. In the new tower, the steelwork is the radiating portion, and thus must be insulated from the ground, Jefferies said. Using the base of the tower as a hub, ninety copper wires, buried underground, radiate out like the

Eleanor Kaefer Seeks Court Order To Get Property

Mrs. Eleanor I. Kaefer, represented by Edward J. Ryan, yesterday asked the circuit court for an order that will permit her to move into the premises at 721 Greene street which property she claims was left to her husband according to the terms of his mother's will.

The petition states that Mrs. Kaefer's husband, Frederick Kaefer, suffered a breakdown on January 5 and is now a patient at Springfield State Hospital, Sykesville.

The petition also states that on May 1, 1946, Mrs. Catherine Kaefer died and left a will naming the Second National Bank executor of her estate.

According to the terms of the will, Mrs. Kaefer said the bank was ordered to pay twenty-five dollars a month to each of Mr. and Mrs. Kaefer's three children "with Frederick having the right to live in the premises at 721 Greene street."

Mrs. Kaefer, who has four children to take care of, ages seven, five, two and one month, charges that the bank has refused to let her move into the home on Greene street which the wife contends is a "violation of the obligations and desires of Frederick Kaefer."

Chief Judge William A. Huster signed a court order for the bank to show cause by June 20 why the petitioner should not be allowed to take up residence in the Greene street property.

Sloan Says Local Court Does Not Have Jurisdiction in O'Neal Case

The jurisdiction of the Allegany County Circuit Court in the injunction asked by James W. O'Neal, blind vendor located in the post office building, against the Maryland Workshop for the Blind was questioned yesterday by D. Lindley Sloan representing the workshop, who argued that injunction proceedings would have to originate in Baltimore where the workshop offices are located. The organization does not have an office in this county, Sloan said.

O'Neal invoked local court action a short time ago to thwart efforts of the Maryland Workshop for the Blind to compel him to subscribe to provisions of the 1936 Randolph-Sheppard act of Congress, which conferred upon the state agency the authority to take over management of stands operated by blind men in federal buildings.

Chief Judge William A. Huster yesterday reserved decision in the matter pending study of a multitude of legal pronouncements cited by counsel for both sides to substantiate their claims. William A. Gunter acted as co-council with Sloan while Morris Baron represented O'Neal.

Sloan compared the Maryland Workshop for the Blind to such state agencies as the public service commission, the comptroller's office and others which cannot be brought into court anywhere except the city of their headquarters unless otherwise provided for the statute. On these grounds he asked for dismissal of O'Neal's petition from the local court.

In behalf of O'Neal, Baron said he was disappointed that his client's case was not tried on its merits, but on technicalities, and advanced arguments purporting to establish that the local court had the power to decide on the score of convenience whether the case would be brought up here.

Before yesterday's arguments began, William S. Wratchford, superintendent of the Maryland Workshop for the Blind, and O'Neal were called to the stand to recite the history of their business relations.

O'Neal told the court he started his business in 1935 with the permission of the Post Office department and that he thought he had a right to continue its operation until the department stated otherwise.

Peskin Says He Will Not Agree To Closed Shop

Shoe Store Owner Declares Union Violates Picketing Laws

Morton W. Peskin, owner of Peskin's Shoe Store, in a formal statement issued yesterday declared he "would not concede to a closed union shop" and charged that "all picket laws" are being violated in connection with the strike of clerks of the store.

The statement followed publication of a letter from C. E. Stutzman, president of Allegany Trades Council, which asked school teachers not to cross the picket line of Local 654, Retail Clerks Union.

Refuses Closed Shop

Peskin stated:

"While we have no objection to a union, we insist on dealing with negotiators who are fair and responsible.

"Mr. Stutzman and Mr. McGinnis both have evaded the main issue in this strike. About two weeks ago in William C. Walsh's office in the presence of Fred Puderbaugh, our attorney, they requested that I discharge a returned soldier who had been in our employment 13 years and who has been back from service less than six months; also a discharged Merchant Marine—who has recently returned and who has been in our employment over six years, and my secretary who has been in our employment 16 years unless the three joined the union at once. That evening, a Mr. Travers, a union negotiator from New York, called me and asked if he could speak to these two returned veterans and I told him that he could and that he should bring Mr. McGinnis with him. The veterans informed these gentlemen that it was not their wish to join the union at this time. Mr. McGinnis insisted that the returned soldier must join in six months and that the returned Merchant Marine, as well as my secretary, had to join at once. As we will not concede to a closed union shop, consequently, further negotiations were then called off.

Cites Working Conditions

"Mr. Stutzman has made the statement that they were striking for higher salaries and better working conditions. The average salary for the two girls longest in our employment, who are on strike, for the year 1945, 52 weeks, was $41.94 and $35.07. This does not include the time that they were off. For 1946 the average was $42.61 and $38.59, not including time off. In addition, these salespeople have made as high as $50 a week. We do not have an employe in our organization who does not receive compensation in excess of the proposed union wage scale.

"As far as working conditions go, they are as close to ideal as any store in Cumberland. In addition, it has been the practice to come to work in the morning as late as 9:30 to 10 o'clock, leaving the store early to catch buses, as well as taking from an hour and a half to two hours for lunch. It was also a practice to stay off from work whenever the occasion suited, without advising me that they would not be in. Are these not ideal working conditions.

"In reference to the sales people that we laid off, while it is no reflection on the young ladies in question, they were in our employment not over two and a half months as they were hired for the peak Easter season. This practice has been exercised in every retail establishment, we presume, in the United States. Mr. Travers, the union negotiator, informed Mr. McGinnis, in my presence, that this was strictly in keeping with the custom of retail establishments.

B. & O. Engineer Retires after 45 Years of Service

D. W. Hovatter, This City, Started Railroad Career in 1901

D. W. Hovatter, 69, 721 Hill Top drive, an engineer on the Cumberland division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for forty-five years, has retired.

Born at Philippi, W. Va., Hovatter started his railroad career February 4, 1901, as a fireman. On January 4, 1906, he was promoted to engineer and worked on the Keyser, W. Va., to Brunswick run and from Keyser to Grafton, W. Va., on fast freight. In 1909 he took a yard turn in the Cumberland terminal and until he hung up his cap and gloves on Saturday shunted cars back and forth here.

Hovatter is the father of five sons who served in the armed forces, and three of them also are B. and O. employes. One of them has handled the firebox on his father's yard engine.

Owner of a twenty-acre farm in the Short Gap, W. Va., section, Hovatter plans to continue to live at the Hill Top drive address but also spend part of each day at the farm where he raises chickens, pigs and some crops. At one time he owned a sixty-acre farm in nearby Pennsylvania but sold it because he was unable to devote enough time to its operation.

Hovatter originally planned to retire several years ago, but decided to remain on the job because of the shortage of experienced railroad men during the war. Now that the war is over and four of his five sons are home and the other expects to be discharged soon, he figures it was time to quit.

His five sons are Joseph W. Hovatter, B. and O. fireman, who served as a sergeant in the army air forces; Leo Harold "Tag" Hovatter, also a B. and O. fireman, who served with an army railroad battalion; James J. Hovatter, an aviation cadet in the navy; Robert Ralph Hovatter, also a navy veteran and a pipefitter at the B. and O. roundhouse, and Sgt. Howard O. Hovatter, with the army air forces at Boca Raton, Fla. He expects his discharge soon.

Westernport Girl Is Struck by Car

WESTERNPORT, June 6 — Lois Johnson, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Johnson, Poplar street, was reported in a "fair" condition tonight in Potomac Valley hospital, Keyser, W. Va., where she was admitted this evening after being struck by a car.

Chief Burza Hanlin, who investigated, said that the accident happened on Main street in front of the Church of the Brethren, about 6 p. m. He said the child ran out from behind a bus parked in front of the church and started across the street to the home of Mr. and Mrs. David McRobie, where she was to attend a party.

A car traveling west on Main street struck the child, the chief said, adding that the driver of the car was James Taylor, Westernport. No charges have been placed against the driver, who stopped after the accident.

School Authorities Attempt To Curb Wild Parties

Fort Hill Senior Celebration Stopped by Interception of Program

A form letter sent to the parents of 168 Fort Hill high school seniors shortly before graduation by Principal Victor D. Heisey revealed that Cumberland school authorities are endeavoring to curb the practice of graduation "drinking parties" by members of senior classes on commencement night.

The contents of Heisey's letter to the parents revealed that plans of some Fort Hill seniors to hold a drinking party had been unearthed with the interception of a typewritten program.

The outline of the planned celebration, which was unsigned, said the private party was planned and would "likely prove the drunkenest, most disgraceful and most talked about party ever put on by a graduating class."

Heisey said in his letter: "Such a celebration of graduates from an institution which has endeavored to direct the education of youth into channels that eventuate in high quality of citizenship certainly does not reflect credit upon the school, the home, the church nor the student, all of whom would have been co-operating in the education endeavor."

The ringleaders of the proposed party were rounded up by school authorities and the diplomas of eight students were withheld until early this week, school officials said.

Meanwhile, plans for a similar party went undetected at Allegany high school and a party that was described by one participant as "pretty rough" was held last Friday night outside of town.

School officials did not comment.

Brook Bodkin Is Cited for Spring Fire Record

Brook Bodkin, senior forest warden, received a certificate of merit at a meeting of state forestry personnel this week in Talbot county and District No. 1, including Allegany and Garrett counties, was cited for having the best spring fire record of any district in the state, District Forester William H. Johnson announced yesterday.

Bodkin received the certificate of merit by the commission of state forests and parks for his fire prevention activities in 1945.

These activities included Bodkin's work in the organization of fire fighting patrols in the district and a series of talks on fire prevention given to 4-H Club groups in the county in conjunction with Assistant County Agent Joseph Steger. Bodkin was also cited for his assistance in developing a system of cooperation among the various wardens, Johnson said.

In gaining recognition for the fire prevention work of District No. 1 in the spring season, it was noted that this district is one of the most thickly timbered in the state with a total of 650,000 acres of woodland. Only forty-two one thousands of one percent of the total amount of timber in District 2 was burned in the spring season, Johnson said.

The Eastern Shore district had the second best fire record in the state for the spring season. District No. 4 was third and District No. 2 was fourth. District 2, the largest, most sprawling district in the state has a total of 700,000 acres of woodland area.

Gladys Roye, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer C. Roye, 4 Walnut street, Ridgeley, was treated in Allegany hospital yesterday afternoon at 5:45 o'clock for injuries suffered when she was hit by a car in Ridgeley.

The child was able to leave the hospital after she was treated for two lacerations on the head and abrasions of the right elbow and leg.
